NORTHWESTERN STATE UNIVERSITY

NATCHITOCHES, LOUISIANA

"My personal goal for Northwestern State University can be summed up in two words: excellence and integrity. We should strive for excellence in all that we do or are a part of. Whether in academics, athletics, research, cultural activities or its community services, the University must strive for excellence; to be the best that it is capable of being and, in so doing, be better than its competitors."

Two NSU students spend their time in the lobby of the Student Union.

"We must not only strive for excellence; we must achieve it with integrity. The process of achievement must be one that we can take pride in. It must be able to withstand the most minute scrutiny and emerge as being ethically and morally sound and without the slightest blemish of suspicion. As we achieve our goals, we and others must be able to take pride not only in our excellence, but also in the process of its attainment."

Renae Quick

Renee Quirk

Amy Spicer and Kim Kimble reflect the friendliness of students that has become a Northwestern trademark.

"We need to continually reinforce and emphasize the fact that the University is first and foremost an environment for education. The process of formal education is fundamentally a teacher/learner experience. Students come to the University to learn, and professors are here primarily to teach them. Students are the reason for the University's existence."

"We live, work and play best in an environment that is clean, healthy, safe and aesthetically pleasing. Our environment is a magnificent campus, a superb setting for a university in an historic, tradition rich and beautiful small city. It is incumbent upon us to interact with it in such a way that it grows in beauty and functionality as an educational environment through our respect and care of it."

"The university is truly a partner in progress with Natchitoches and the surrounding community, and it must interact effectively with its constituencies for the mutual benefit of each, always mindful of the educational impact and implications of all its interactive ventures and services. Natchitoches and Northwestern have a nice ring when the names are said in combination. We must do whatever is necessary to fortify the already strong bonds between them. The University, the City, the State and the region will all benefit in the process."

Fernando Ovares

NSU's Watson Memorial Library is an excellent facility for study.

"Athletics are a vital part of Northwestern State University. Excellence in athletics is not only a viable goal for the University, it is a necessary one that must complement excellence in academics as well as in all aspects of the University's being. Excellence in athletics has been an important part of the history of Northwestern State University. A commitment must be made to make it an important part of the University's future."

"The University is an educational environment. It is unique in the fact that a small child can enter a nursery school on its campus and earn a doctorate degree two decades later without leaving the campus. With the new Louisiana School for Math, Science and the Arts now located on its campus, the University offers a richness and variety of educational opportunities for people of all ages, interests and abilities that is unequalled not only in Louisiana or the South, but in the nation."

Renard Quack

Renee Clark

"I am proud to be a part of Northwestern State University . . . It is a good University. With the proper attitude and cooperation of the entire community, it can become a great University equal to any of its size and scope. To become great, it must strive for excellence in all that it does and do it with integrity. When excellence pervades its entire being, it will achieve greatness."

It should be noted that a correction has been made concerning the volume numbers of the POTPOURRI. An error was discovered that deserved immediate correction as we underwent research for our Homecoming Banquet.

It was discovered that in 1918, 1920, and 1944, the POTPOURRI was not published, largely due to the strain of war. Volume numbers do not, however, reflect this. Therefore, this is actually volume 72 and not 75. A correction has been made accordingly.

HOMECOMING

NSU President Dr. Joseph looks on as Homecoming Queen Laurie Weaver is escorted down the field.

Hundreds of alumni and friends of Northwestern returned to the historic campus for the university's 98th anniversary Homecoming program.

The highlight of the two full days of activities planned for the event was the football game between Northwestern and Abilene Christian.

Laurie Weaver, sophomore from Vivian, was Northwestern's 1982 Homecoming queen.

New Graduate N Club Athletic Hall of Fame members were Dick Reding of Houghton, George McConathy of Bossier City, Bernard Waggoner of Logansport, Monte Ledbetter of Nat-chitoches, Billy Jack Booth of Alexandria and Johnny "Red" Robertson of Ferriday.

Other Homecoming activities included the fishing tournament at the downtown boat launch on Cane River, NSU Foundation board of directors meeting, NSU Alumni Association board of directors meeting, and Homecoming registration in Varnado Hall.

A presidential reception for university alumni and friends was held in the Student union.

STATE FAIR

Kim Kimble receives flowers from Dr. Joseph Orze, NSU President.

Kim Kimble of Natchitoches was elected as Northwestern's State Fair Queen to reign over NSU Activities during the 68th football game between Northwestern and Louisiana Tech University on October 23, 1982.

State Fair Week, an annual event, was once again a week of enthusiasm at NSU. Students could spend their days participating in various campus events including a midnight breakfast, and numerous pep rallies.

To end State Fair Week was the exciting annual game between Northwestern and Louisiana Tech University at State Fair Stadium in Shreveport.

STEVE GIPSON

Steve Gipson, a comedian and caricaturist whose fast-paced and funny routines have made him famous, appeared at NSU March 22, 1982 to kick off Union Week.

Gipson entertained the student audience with such caricatures as Richard Nixon, Ronald Reagan, Elton John, Rod Stewart and many others. In a special tribute to short people, Gipson selected an appropriate audience member and drew their caricature to the accompaniment of Randy Newman's tune, "Short People."

Gipson concluded his show by tracing the story of his life and adding comic drawings of himself.

DISTINGUISHED LECTURE SERIES

JONATHAN KOZOL

Controversial education writer Jonathan Kozol told a Northwestern State University audience that public school teachers are "pimping for the textbook authors" when they use guidebooks which instruct them in the way students should react to such material as stories and poems.

"These guidebooks teach manipulation, but will never admit it," said Kozol, who has been highly critical of the teacher's guide accompanying the "Basal Reader." Both teacher and student are denied "any chance of intellectual surprises" with this type of manipulation, he stated.

As Kozol discussed the "fake discovery method" of educational indoctrination, he said, "Children are led to discover what we have already decided upon. The child who breaks the pattern becomes an adversary of the teacher."

Kozol, who won the National Book Award for "Death at an Early Age" and recently published "Alternative Schools: A Guide for Educators and Parents," said children in public schools are being pointed toward "nationalistic conclusions" and directed to "learn the superior value of the lives of American citizens."

ART LAFFER

Dr. Art Laffer, supply-side economics theorist was recognized nationally as the economist whose supply-side theory for cutting taxes to increase government revenues was adopted by President Ronald Reagan.

Currently a member of the Los Angeles Times Board of Economists, he was one of the President's top adviser's during the 1980 presidential campaign and later served as a member of Reagan's Economic Policy Advisory Board.

Laffer, famous for developing the "Laffer curve", previously worked for a brief period in the Richard Nixon administration's Office of Management and Budget.

The economist is a professor of business economics at the University of Southern California and has his own consulting firm.

DISTINGUISHED LECTURE SERIES

JACK REYNOLDS

The People's Republic of China does not want a military confrontation with the Soviet Union, NBC News Hong Kong correspondent Jack Reynolds said at Northwestern State University.

For years the Chinese have had fears and resentments about Russia," stated Reynolds, who added that "48 to 52 armored divisions of the Russian military have been placed along the China border" to discourage the thought of such a confrontation.

Appearing in the Distinguished Lecture Series, Reynolds expressed the opinion that the Chinese are not equipped to win a war with the Soviet Union.

For the Chinese," he said, "their army is of the 1950's, not well equipped. And to make matters worse, they have been cutting the military back the last two years. They wouldn't stand a chance in a confrontation with armored tanks."

On the sea, the situation for the Chinese is not much better, Reynolds said, "Their ships are also from the 1950's, not much above the Korean War," stated Reynolds, who has covered China for NBC for more than a decade.

According to Reynolds, the "horrible cultural revolution" which prevailed under Chairman Mao Tse-Tung is over, and the Chinese are trying to recover from the experience through the leadership of Deng Xiao-Ping, vice-chairman of the Communist Party since 1977.

"The revolution came unglued under Mao, and the Chinese are now trying to get it back together again," said Reynolds.

CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL

For the 15th consecutive year, the large windows in the front of the Student Union Building at NSU were transformed into huge, colorful murals depicting an unusual variety of Christmas scenes.

More than 100 students representing 17 campus organizations paint post-card like pictures on the windows of the Student Union and for the first time, the four glass panels of Ibberville Dining Hall.

A popular tradition at NSU, the Christmas window decorations program has been conducted since 1968 by the SUGB.

Along with the windows on the Student Union Building, students were able to enjoy the many other activities during the 56th annual Christmas Festival.

INVESTITURE CEREMONIES

Dr. Joseph J. Orze delivers his investiture address after being formally installed as the 15th president of Northwestern.

More than 2000 people from throughout the state were at Northwestern State University Friday, November 5, for the investiture convocation in which Dr. Joseph J. Orze was formally installed as the 15th president of NSU.

Among those accepting special invitations to attend the ceremonies were members of the state legislature, the Board of Trustees for Louisiana Colleges and Universities and the Louisiana Board of Regents for Higher Education.

Also attending were several presidents of Louisiana colleges and universities, superintendents of parish school systems, local and parish elected officials and members of the NSU Alumni Association and Foundation Boards of Directors.

Presenting salutary remarks during the investiture convocation were Dr. William Junkin, executive director of the Louisiana Board of Trustees for Colleges and Universities, Dr. William Arceneaux, executive director of the Louisiana Board of Regents for Higher Education, Raymond Arthur, president of the Northwestern Alumni Association, Dr. Maxine Taylor, professor of history and president of the NSU Faculty Senate, and Joseph Stamey, senior accounting major and president of the NSU Student Government Association.

The keynote address for the event was delivered by Dr. Allen Ostar of Washington, D.C., president of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities. His address was entitled, "Higher Education Leadership in the Eighties."

The installation of Orze as the 15th president of NSU was conducted by Wiley H. Sharp of Hammond, President of the Louisiana Board of Trustees for Colleges and Universities. Orze delivered his investiture address following the installation ceremonies.

Day-long activities were planned for Orze's investiture, beginning with an ecumenical mass at the Immaculate Conception Catholic Church in Natchitoches. Following the mass was a reception at the Lemee House hosted by the City of Natchitoches and the Natchitoches Parish Chamber of Commerce.

An informal noon luncheon honoring Orze and the opening of the NSU Art Department's alumni art exhibit in the Art gallery of the A. A. Fredericks Center for the Creative and Performing Arts followed the investiture convocation.

Closing out the day of activities was the President's Concert featuring music, dance and dramatic presentations sponsored by NSU's school of creative and performing arts.

Tommy Whitehead, Curtis Wester, and Randy Nichols enjoy the Art Department's alumni art exhibit, one of the many activities celebrating the investiture of Dr. Joseph J. Orze.

CONCERTS

RONNIE MILSAP

Ronnie Milsap, the Country Music Association's only three-time winner of the male vocalist of the year award, appeared in concert at NSU on Saturday, December 4, 1982.

The Ronnie Milsap Concert was sponsored by the NSU's Student Union Governing Board as the "big name" entertainment attraction of the 56th annual Natchitoches Christmas Festival.

Milsap, who last appeared at NSU in 1979, released his 26th single in October, 1982. It was entitled "Inside" and was off his latest album, "Inside Ronnie Milsap." No less than 22 of his singles have achieved No. 1 status and of 14 albums he has recorded, six were certified as "gold" albums.

Milsap won numerous Grammy Awards from the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences, including the best male vocal performance award in 1981 for his single, "There's No Gettin' Over Me."

SOS BAND

The S.O.S. Band of Atlanta, Georgia performed in concert March 17, 1982 in NSU's Prather Coliseum.

One of the few groups to ever debut with a platinum single and gold album, the S.O.S. appeared under the sponsorship of the Student Union Governing Board.

The group, which was formed four years ago, has performed in concert halls throughout the south. The S.O.S. Band has also shared the stage with such stars as the Commodores and the Isley Brothers.

Ronnie Milsap performs before a Natchitoches Christmas Festival crowd in NSU's Prather Coliseum.

NATCHITOCHES FOLK FESTIVAL

Over 12,000 people from across the United States and from several foreign nations were expected to attend the four sessions of the Natchitoches Folk Festival July 16-18 in Prather Coliseum at Northwestern State University.

Sponsored since 1980 by the Louisiana Folklife Center of NSU, this "very special festival" has become a major event because it presented essential cultural traditions which preserve the rich heritage of Louisiana peoples.

Directed by Dr. Donald W. Hatley and carefully planned by a 14-member steering committee, the Natchitoches Folk Festival was dedicated to the preservation and restoration of native Louisiana folk music, dance, crafts, lore and foods.

The nighttime music shows featured Hadley Castille and His Cajun Band, Southland Bluegrass, Joe Bradford and the Acadian Playboys and the Natchitoches Bluesmen on Friday and Tex Grimsley and the New Red River Ramblers, Cush Cush, the Loggy Bayou Misfits and Hezekiah and the Houserockers on Saturday.

The Saturday and Sunday daytime sessions featured a wide variety of folk music on three stages, more than 30 master craftsmen demonstrating their folk art, 11 ethnic food booths and a unique exhibit honoring Louisiana's gigantic oil and gas industry.

The highlight of the festival's tribute to the oil and gas industry came Saturday when internationally-famous wild well firefighter Paul N. "Red" Adair of Houston appeared during the daytime session.

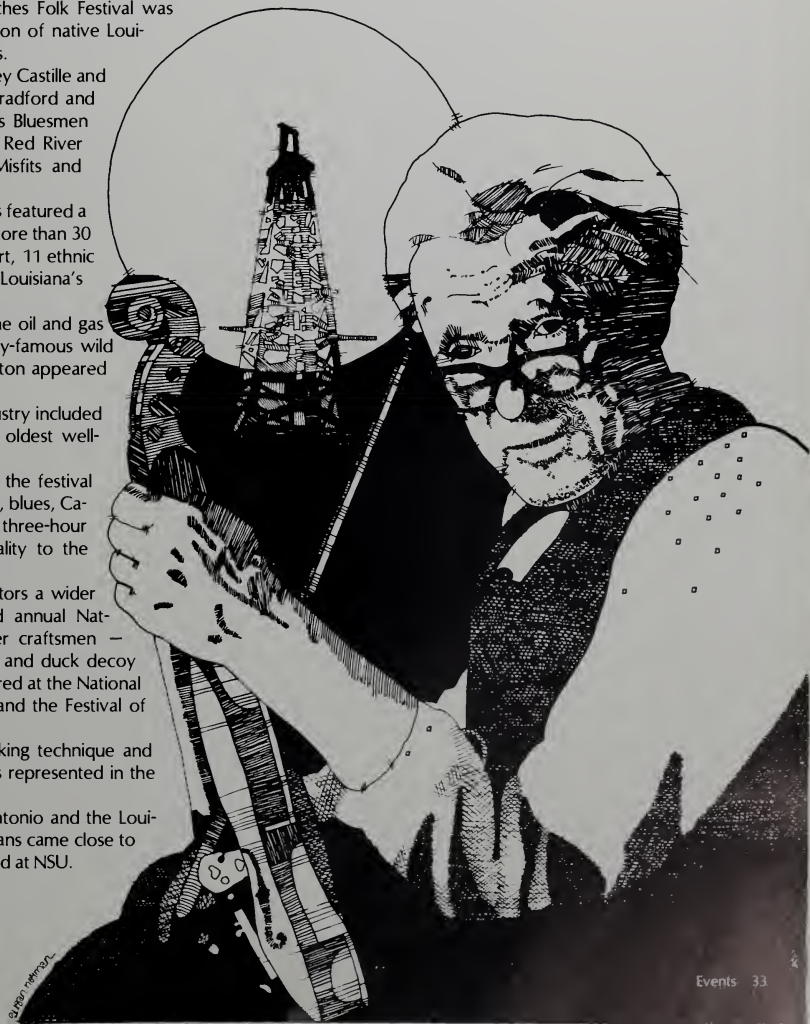

The exhibit on Louisiana's oil and gas industry included a small cable derrick and a display of the oldest well-drilling tools in existence.

The nighttime music shows presented at the festival featured some of Louisiana's finest bluegrass, blues, Cajun and country barn dance music. These three-hour music shows have been compared in quality to the Louisiana Hayride and the Grand Ole Opry.

No other festival in Louisiana offered visitors a wider variety of traditional crafts than the third annual Natchitoches Folk Festival. Two of the master craftsmen — walking stick carver David Allen of Homer and duck decoy carver Irvan Perez of Poydras — were featured at the National Folk Festival at Wolf Trap Park in Virginia and the Festival of American Folklife in Washington, D.C.

Every known Louisiana Indian basket-making technique and nearly the whole range of Indian crafts was represented in the festival's craft component.

Only the Texas Folklife Festival at San Antonio and the Louisiana Jazz and Heritage Festival at New Orleans came close to the variety of the folk music groups presented at NSU.

UNIVERSITY PLAYS

Allan Barnes of Marrero and Lionel Bourg of Natchitoches in a dramatic scene from the play "Bus Stop."

William Inge's play, "Bus Stop," opened its four day, five performance run on February 15 in Theatre 320 of the Student Union Building at NSU.

The University Theatre of Northwestern presented "Bus Stop" as its first theatrical offering of the spring semester.

"Bus Stop," which offered an interesting mixture of drama, romance and comedy, was directed by Sally Carmichael of the NSU Department of Theatre and Speech faculty.

The play was first presented by Robert Whitehead and Roger Stevens at the Music Box in New York City in 1955 and was later made into a major motion picture starring Marilyn Monroe.

The action of the play took place inside a street corner restaurant in a small Kansas town about 30 miles from Kansas City. The restaurant was a restaurant for the bus lines in the area.

The bus bound for Topeka arrived at the restaurant in the midst of a blizzard. The roads were all closed ahead of the restaurant, so the passengers and the bus driver were forced to spend the night in the restaurant.

"The play was full of romantic conflicts and intertwined in to the plot are drama and comedy as well as romance," explained Mrs. Carmichael.

The original musical revue "El Grande de Coca-Cola" was presented Monday through Friday, November 15-19, 1982, in the Student Union Ballroom at Northwestern State University.

Nan L. Stephenson, assistant professor and director of the University Theatre at NSU, directed the production for the Department of Theatre and Speech, which sponsored the five performances.

Set in a makeshift nightclub and bottling plant in a coastal resort village in Honduras, "El Grande de Coca-Cola" concerned the zany Hernandez family and their impractical attempt to achieve stardom by pretending to be international stars in a show sponsored by their cousin, the local Coca-Cola bottler.

Angela Rome of Marrero played the lead role of Pepita Hernandez, the mistress of ceremonies who introduces the various members of her family in the musical revue.

Other members of the cast included Benjamin Bryant and Tim LeBoeuf of Natchitoches, Betsy Corley of Winnsboro, Marva Moxey of the Bahamas, Angelita Police of Shreveport and Darlene Winslow of Zwolle.

UNIVERSITY PLAYS

Vincent Williams and Daphne DeVerger rehearse a scene from Samm-Art Williams' acclaimed romantic drama, "Home."

The cast of the original music revue "El Grande de Coca-Cola" pose for a publicity shot.

Samm Art Williams' acclaimed romantic drama, "Home," opened Tuesday, October 12, 1982, for four performances in the Student Union Building at Northwestern State University.

The University Theatre of Northwestern presented the play.

Nan L. Stephenson, assistant professor and director of the University Theatre, directed "Home" which was NSU's entry in the Louisiana College Theatre Festival competition in Ruston.

Vincent Williams, senior theatre-speech major from Natchitoches, won the lead role of Cephus Miles in the production, which dealt joyfully with the coming of age of a young black man in rural South Carolina.

Playing opposite Williams in the character roles of two women in his past was junior journalism majors Linda Verrett of Natchitoches and Daphne DeVerger from Many.

UNIVERSITY REORGANIZATION

The following is a copy of the Academic Reorganization portion of the University re-ordering plan as submitted to faculty and staff members in January of 1983. The plan was approved by the State Board of Trustees in February, 1983. As stated by Dr. Orze in his letter in January, "It is anticipated that the reorganization structure will be in place for the start of the 1983/1984 fiscal and academic year. To achieve this, planning and preparations must occur immediately upon the approval of the reorganization plan by our Board of Trustees and be carried out through the Spring 1983 semester."

ACADEMIC REORGANIZATION

The Vice-President for Academic Affairs will be the chief academic officer of the University responsible for coordinating and directing the instructional, research, cultural and service activities of five colleges composed of twenty-one (21) primarily multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary departments; a graduate school, the University libraries, the Fort Polk, Shreveport and other branch campuses and programs, continuing education, various institutes and other academically oriented programs and activities.

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

The former Colleges of Science and Technology and Liberal Arts have been combined into a College of Arts and Sciences. As is true at most universities, this college will be the largest and most diverse within the University providing both a wide range of major programs and academic support for the programs of the other colleges. The college will consist of the following departments and school.

Biology and Microbiology The former departments of Biological Sciences and Microbiology and Biochemistry and the Division of Allied Health will be combined to create a generic department of Biological Sciences. The department would consist of fifteen (15) faculty members.

History, Social Sciences and Social Work A combined faculty of twenty (20) from the former departments of History, Social Sciences and Sociology and Social Work will make up the Department of History and Social Sciences. While History retains its identity within the departmental title, Sociology and Social Work are subsumed under the generic term Social Sciences.

Language Arts Communication skills development is the common thread that weaves among and between English, Foreign Languages, Speech and Journalism to create the Department of Language Arts. English and Foreign Languages come from the former Languages Department, Speech from Speech and Theatre and Journalism from Mass Communications. There are many interrelated skills involved in the various areas, and the opportunities for more effective and creative use of faculty and other resources are abundant. (23 faculty)

Mathematics (11 faculty) remains as it was, as does

Military Science (8 faculty)

Chemistry, Physics and Geology The possibility for the development of interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary programming related to the physical and environmental sciences exists in the combination of Biochemistry, Chemistry, Geology and Physics as a single administrative unit. (8 faculty members)

The School of the Creative and Performing Arts has been reorganized into three departments:

Art Photography has been moved from the Mass Communications Department to combine with drawing, painting sculpture, design, crafts and art education to form the Department of Art. The development of professional artists and photographers must be the department's goal. (7 faculty members)

Theatre and Media Arts The various aspects of media and performance within the University's curriculum are brought together to create the Department of Theatre and Media Arts. A combined faculty of eight (8) from Theatre, Dance and the Television and Cinematography areas of Mass Communications will have the opportunity for greater creative interaction and academic development than currently exists in their small individual departments. Professional performance should be their goal.

Music The Music Department shall remain as it has been with an emphasis on the development of professional caliber musicians through the vocal, instrumental, theory and composition studies it offers. (16 faculty members)

COLLEGE OF BUSINESS AND APPLIED SCIENCES

The College of Business and Applied Sciences brings together the various career programs of the University in a college whose structure will allow of the gaining of American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business accreditation while homogeneously aligning other study areas whose goal is the preparation of skilled professionals for various areas of business and industry. It will contain the following departments:

Business Administration/Management The various major tracks of personnel, marketing, finance, accounting, economics and management will be among the emphasis areas of this twenty (20) faculty department, which combines the former departments of Business Administration and Economics and Accounting. An important division within the department structure will be Computer and Information Systems. Its placement in the department reflects not only its orientation but also the high service the area provides the business programs.

Business Education — Distributive Education and Office Administration This six (6) faculty member department remains as it was previously structured.

Industrial Education and Technology with its Aviation Science track moves from the former College of Science and Technology with its nine (9) faculty members.

Home Economics and its seven (7) faculty members move from the College of Education.

Agriculture and Animal Sciences The name of the department has been changed to reflect the mission of the department and its work in the animal sciences.

UNIVERSITY REORGANIZATION

It is anticipated that the title will also be indicative of the department's program development as it moves into the future. The seven (7) faculty member department was formerly in the College of Science and Technology.

COLLEGE OF EDUCATION AND BEHAVIORAL SCIENCES

The University had its origins as a teacher preparatory school. The organization of the College of Education and Behavioral Sciences brings together the diverse resources and programs of the University which through their combined strengths and potentials can help the school regain the prominence it once had in the field of education. Within the college, the following departments will be located:

Psychology The departments of Psychology and Educational Psychology and the program in Guidance and Counseling are merged into a generic Psychology Department with nine (9) faculty members.

Education This is a generic education department which combines the former Elementary and Secondary Education departments and expands into the field of higher education where opportunities exist for graduate program development. Student Personnel Services programming would be a part of the higher education track. This would be a sixteen (16) faculty department.

Health, Physical Education and Recreation has had the Recreation added to its title to reflect the current trends of opportunities and programming in this area. It is anticipated that the eleven (11) faculty department will move more in this direction while revitalizing its once highly enrolled curriculum.

Special Education with its eight (8) faculty members would remain intact.

COLLEGE OF NURSING

The only change in the College of Nursing would be in the title of its graduate department, which would become the Department of Graduate Studies and Research to include not only its Master degree program but also the doctorate program that is currently in the planning/approval process. The three departments in the college are:

Associate Degree Program
Baccalaureate Program
Graduate Studies and Research

COLLEGE OF BASIC STUDIES AND ASSOCIATE PROGRAMS

Among the most far-reaching and distinct changes in the University's reorganization are those made in the former College of Basic Studies and Academic Services. All of the academic support areas such as Admissions, Financial Aid, and High School Relations have been moved out of the college. The college will become an academic entity with very specific and important roles to play in the University. Its name indicates the two major classifications of its academic responsibilities. One has to do with the basic studies of all University students including developmental education programs for those who need it. The other embraces all of the associate degree programs of the University and the development of a community college division within it.

The Freshman Year is the most critical year for a University student. If it is a successful year, the student retention rate for the Sophomore Year improves. If it is not, the student attrition rate increases. One of the most important responsibilities of the college will be to coordinate all freshman studies and to work with the students and the other colleges to increase student success and retention at the University.

The college will have very few faculty of its own. These will be associated with specific areas such as ALOC (American Language Orientation Center) and the College Success Program, a positive name and approach for developmental education. The faculty of the college will be the best faculty chosen from other colleges and departments to work under a dual appointment in their subject area and Basic Studies. For example, a mathematics professor selected for working with the Basic Studies program would have the title of Dual Professor of Mathematics and Basic Studies. Through emphasis placed on the selection of teachers for such dual status and through the importance of their role on campus, we hope that the dual appointment will be coveted.

All associate degree programs of the University will be coordinated through the College of Basic Studies and Associate Programs with subject matter coordinators from the programs' colleges and departments working under an arrangement similar to that described above. Also, emphasis will be placed on the development of a community college division which will be responsive to the associate degree programming needs of the area.

The concept under which this college was organized was the strengthening of the entire University through the development of an effective way of dealing with the entering student and providing him/her with the kind of educational experience that will not only assure his/her ability to continue at the University but also his/her desire to. It attacks directly the second part of the University's enrollment problem: retention, by making the student's first educational experience at the University as successful and fulfilling as possible.

The programs in the College of Basic Studies and Associate Programs include

American Language Orientation Center
Basic Studies
Community College Division
College Success Program
Early Admissions/Special Studies
Orientation (Academic Program of Study)
Servicemen's Opportunity College

IMPLEMENTATION

The reorganization of Northwestern State University of Louisiana was developed on the premise that any reorganization of the University should first and foremost be educationally sound, viable and achievable as well as fiscally responsible and prudent.

The rationale and structure of the reorganization is future oriented and not solely reactive to present needs and circumstances. It is a plan to build upon, the foundation for the growth and development of the University, in quality as well as in numbers. Academically, it has created primarily a multidisciplinary/interdisciplinary departmental structure which makes it possible for the University to address viable interrelationships of academic programs and disciplines. It is not a completed blueprint of a university. Rather, it is an organizational foundation upon which the University can cooperatively build its future.

WILLIAMS TERMINATED AS ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

STAMEY ELECTED TO BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Joe Stamey of Natchitoches, president of the Student Government Association at Northwestern State University, has been elected as the state's student representative on the Board of Trustees for Louisiana Colleges and Universities.

As one of the 18 voting members of the management board, Stamey will represent the students and SGA officials of the nine colleges and universities operating under the Board of Trustees system.

The senior accounting major at NSU will begin his one-year term on June 1, when he received full voting privileges and was appointed to committees of the Board of Trustees. Stamey succeeds Cornell Martin, SGA president at Nicholls State University in Thibodaux as the student representative on the board.

Stamey was elected to the Board of Trustees during the May 15 meeting in Baton Rouge of the Council of Student Government Association Presidents for State Colleges and Universities. He is the first SGA president from Northwestern to be elected to the position.

Recently chosen for a second term as SGA president at Northwestern, the new Board of Trustees member is a 1979 graduate of St. Mary's High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Stamey of Natchitoches.

Stamey, who has maintained a 3.72 grade-point average, has also served the Northwestern SGA as a senator-at-large and president pro tem of the Student Senate in 1980-81 and as a freshman class senator in 1979-80.

The NSU senior is a member of Kappa Sigma Fraternity, Phi Kappa Phi academic honor society and Phi Eta Sigma national honor society for sophomore men of high academic standing. He was Sigma Sigma Sigma Sorority's Man of the Year in 1981-82 and served as president of the NSU Interfraternity Council in 1980-81.

DEGREE IN PHOTOGRAPHY APPROVED BY BOARD

Photography at NSU has recently received two major boosts through the renovation of the Photo Lab and the Board of Trustees approval for a bachelors degree in photography.

According to Nolan Bailey, Instructor of Photography, the curriculum is set up to train students in the methods and techniques of professional photography. Courses to be offered will involve instruction in such areas as black and white, portrait, film making, color, photojournalism, and color slide.

To accommodate the expected increase in student use of the Laboratory facilities, the Photo Lab's large printing room has been divided into a printing darkroom and a print washing/drying room. Bailey said this would allow a larger number of students to use the laboratory at the same time. Each student will also have more time individually, thus preparing their photos and slides more efficiently.

Included in the Photo Lab renovation was the purchase of over $20,000 of photographic equipment for use in the basic classes. Students working in the lab will have access to six new enlargers, a print washer and dryer, a water chiller for processing film, seven Olympus cameras and lenses, eight Vivitar flash units, and four Yashica Mat cameras.

Bailey said plans are being made to add portrait and commercial studios, as well as processing areas for color and black-and-white film. He expects the program to attract many interested students from throughout the state.

Head Football Coach and Athletic Director A. L. Williams has announced that his contract will be terminated at the end of the 1982-83 fiscal year.

Dr. Joseph J. Orze, Northwestern's president, stated the decision was made, "because it was in the best interests of the university to resolve the athletic situation at this time but still allow A. L. time to relocate."

Orze said he felt a change in NSU athletics, "was necessary, but I also wanted to be fair to Coach Williams, and I will provide all of the support possible to assist him in having a successful season and in leaving Northwestern as a winner."

Williams, whose contract will expire on July 1, 1983, has served as head coach at Northwestern for seven seasons, compiling a record of 32 victories and 41 losses. He has been athletic director for five years and served one season as an assistant.

"I feel we have made progress in football," Williams said. "I am disappointed that some of the goals we had set were not reached. After the 8-3 season in 1980, we felt the football program had reached the point where we wanted it to be, but a lot of injuries last year set us back."

Williams went on to say, "I feel that the athletic program is in overall much better shape now than it was when I came here, but I don't have any bad feelings. I have had too many great relationships with athletes here to be bitter."

Williams' best year came in 1980, when the Demons won eight games, for only the third time in history, and were ranked eighth in the final 1-AA poll. The 1980 season was highlighted by a 13-10 victory over McNeese in Lake Charles, which snapped a two-year regular season winning streak for the Cowboys.

While at Northwestern, Williams has put several players in the professional ranks, these include Sidney Thornton of the Steelers, Petey Perot of the Eagles, and Joe Delaney of the Chiefs. Four others — Mark Duper, James Bennett, Carlton Finister, and Darrel Toussaint — will join pro teams this season.

From the 1981 season Northwestern will return 15 starters, and Williams said he is "optimistic that we will have a successful year. My objective is to have the best football team possible."

LET GRANTED ACCREDITATION

The accreditation board of the National Association of Industrial Technology has granted full accreditation for two years to the baccalaureate degree program in industrial technology at Northwestern.

Northwestern is the first college or university in Louisiana to have an industrial technology program at the associate, baccalaureate or masters level accredited by the professional organization.

Dr. Charles Wommack, head of the Department of Industrial Education and Technology at NSU, said the National Association of Industrial Technology has recognized only 26 programs in industrial technology nationwide as meeting its standards for accreditation.

"Our department, which prepares undergraduate students for management position in industry, has been strengthened through the efforts of the faculty and administration during the year-long accreditation study to ensure that the department met the rigid standards of the organization," stated Wommack.

He added, "The recognition given the industrial technology program by an outside organization was very encouraging. Program direction provided by representatives of education and industry should have long-range benefits for Northwestern."

Wommack was in San Francisco when the association's accreditation board reviewed Northwestern's application and onsite evaluation report. He was notified that the program has been granted full accreditation.

Northwestern's Department of Industrial Education and Technology applied for accreditation in 1981, and in the spring of 1982 a three-member accreditation team visited the NSU campus to conduct an evaluation of the four-year program.

NSU PUBLISHES AWARD WINNING BOOK

"Andrew Durnford: A Black Sugar Planter in Antebellum Louisiana," published last year by the NSU Press, has been recognized as a 1981 Honor Book by the literary award committee of the Louisiana Library Association.

The 138-page monograph by David O. Whitten, which brings the life of a free Negro planter and slaveholder to the attention of students of the antebellum South, was one of only seven publications on Louisiana subjects selected by the committee for special recognition.

NSU Press director John M. Price said, "We are very proud to have published this book. It is a good, solid monograph and a unique book about a unique subject. This publication is exceptional, because so few records remain of black planters."

According to Price, there were 135 titles of books and pamphlets written about Louisiana or by Louisiana authors considered by the literary award committee. The seven Honor books were in addition to the selection of C. C. Lockwood's "Atchafalaya: America's Largest River Basin Swamp" as the 1981 recipient of the Louisiana Literary Award.

"Andrew Durnford: A Black Sugar Planter in Antebellum Louisiana" is the result of two decades of research into the life of a free black slaveholder by Whitten, a professor of history at Auburn University.

John Hope Franklin, a noted black scholar who wrote the foreword and jacket information for the book, said, "We do not have many examples of free black slaveholders whose records provide us with a picture of their conduct, attitudes, activities and their relations with their slaves as well as with others. In the archives in Louisiana, David Whitten found such a person in Andrew Durnford."

Franklin added, "Durnford is unique in that there is sufficient material to provide an excellent picture of his life as a planter, slaveholder and intimate friend of John McDonogh, a most important fixture in Louisiana history at the time. These two men — one white, one black — were each other's confident, reliable colleague and intimate friend. There seemed to be no favor that one would not do for the other, ranging from errands, to extensive trips, to the lending of money."

DEPARTMENT OF THEATER AND SPEECH RECEIVES AWARDS

Vince Williams of Natchitoches was nominated for the Irene Ryan Acting Scholarship, and Dr. Robert Black received the Amoco Award for outstanding play directing to highlight Northwestern's participation at the Louisiana college Theatre Festival in Ruston.

A senior theatre-speech major, Williams was one of 14 collegiate actors and actresses from Louisiana who received nominations for the $750 scholarship to be given to a student at the Region VI Festival Jan. 16-23 in Ft. Worth, Tex.

The 12 regional scholarship winners will be in Washington, D.C., in the spring to participate in "Evening of Scenes," which will highlight the National College Theatre Festival. Two student performers are awarded $2,500 scholarships at the National Festival.

Williams was nominated for his portrayal of Cephus, the lead role in "Home," a play by Samm-Art Williams which deals joyfully with the coming of age of a young black man from rural South Carolina.

The play, which was NSU's entry in the Louisiana College Theatre Festival, was directed by Black, professor and head of the Theatre-Speech Department at Northwestern. Black was one of five college and university directors who received the Amoco Award for outstanding direction of a play.

Also at the state festival in Ruston, Northwestern junior English major Susan Haga of Many had her one-act play, "Rockefeller Square," selected for the regional competition in Ft. Worth.

In addition to Black, NSU faculty members Michael Atkins, Ray Schexnider and Nan Stephenson also attended the five-day festival hosted by Louisiana Tech University.

Schexnider was Northwestern's official representative at the Louisiana Division of the Arts meeting conducted during the state festival. "The general thrust of the meeting was that we urged the formation of a professional theatre repertory company in Louisiana," said Schexnider.

Franklin, of the National Humanities Center Research Triangle Park in North Carolina, underscored the importance of the book by stating, "There are few known records that reveal a black-white relationship like that of Durnford and McDonogh. And there are virtually no records similar to those of Andrew Durnford."

ASHCRAFT AND FRAZIER STAR IN "CARMEN"

Two artists who are among the most outstanding young singers in Louisiana will appear in principal roles during the April 29 and May 1 outdoor performances of "Carmen" at the Grand Ecore Amphitheatre in Natchitoches.

Harold Ashcraft, a Northwestern senior vocal performance major from Natchitoches and winner of numerous competitions and festivals, will sing the role of Don Jose, the Corporal of the Dragoons.

Performing as Zuniga, Captain of the Dragoons, will be Dr. Larry Frazier, an associate professor of voice at NSU who has sung more than 100 leading roles in opera and oratorio throughout the United States.

As an undergraduate student, Ashcraft has sung the roles of Rinuccio in the Shreveport Opera on Wheels production of "Gianni Schicci" in 1981 and Gastone in "La Traviata," which was presented in Alexandria this spring by the Matinee Music Club and the Rapides Symphony.

This will be Ashcraft's third major role in a production for the Natchitoches-Northwestern Symphony Society. In 1980 he appeared as Yamadori in "Madame Butterfly" and in 1981 had the role of Ike Skidmore in "Oklahoma!"

A tenor soloist with the First United Methodist Church of Natchitoches, Ashcraft won a scholarship to attend last summer's Tanglewood Music Festival, where he studied with Phyllis Curtin and sang in the Tanglewood Festival Chorus. He has also placed three years in the Metropolitan Opera District Auditions in Shreveport.

Frazier is a well-known bass singer who has successfully combined a professional singing career with teaching, specializing in vocal performance and music theatre.

In 1982 Frazier made a guest appearance in Jackson, Miss., where he played Kezal, the marriage broker, in the Opera-South production of "The Bartered Bride."

He also sang on the Guest Artist Series at Centenary College in Shreveport.

Frazier, who joined the NSU voice faculty in the fall of 1981, last fall, made his performance debut in 1970 in the Shreveport Symphony Repertory Opera production of "The Merry Wives of Windsor."

Since his debut, he has toured as leading bass with the National Opera in the roles of Figaro and Colline and has appeared with the San Antonio Symphony, the Midland-Odessa Symphony, the Johnson City Symphony, the Mississippi Opera, Opera Southeast and the Florida State Opera.

Frazier's performance career includes one season with the National Opera Company based in Raleigh, N.C., and twice being a national finalist in competitions sponsored by the National Association of Teachers of Singing and the National Federation of Music Clubs.

SAGA LOSES BID

SAGA food corporation, NSU's official food contractor, will be replaced by Professional Food Managers (PFM) effective September of 1982, according to Mike Bates, SAGA Food Service Director.

SAGA, which had the contract at NSU since 1968, lost the contract on two previous occasions, and both times have regained the contract for NSU the following spring, said Bates.

"We are concerned that there was so much difference in the bids," said Bates. He stated that PFM bid some $59,000 lower than SAGA. Bates estimated that the contract would go back to bid next summer.

Bates accounted for the large difference of money PFM underbid only speculatively. "It may have been because they didn't have all the facts to bid on," "Everytime we have lost the contract, we have come back to take it up again, and we hope to do it again," concluded Bates.

SGA EXECS RUN UNOPPOSED

Apathy has hit a high point in the Student Government Association and the Union Board. Candidates for the offices of President, Vice-President, Commissioner of Elections, and all the SUGB Senator-at-Large positions will be filled without an election because there is only one hopeful for the offices, said acting Commissioner of Elections, Steve Soileau.

"There is no reason to vote because . . . they've got the positions," said Soileau. Soileau felt that the SGA turnout is poor because of a lack of interest.

All candidates running unopposed in the March 17 elections automatically will serve in that position. SGA applicants are: President, Joe Stamey, Vice-President, Stacy Soileau, Commissioner of Elections, Harlan Harvey, Secretary, Allison Arthur and Helene Morgan, Treasurer Larry Hall and Christee Hyde.

SGA Senator-at-Large hopefuls are Perry Anderson, Brunetta Anthony, Christie Ann Avant, Mary Bittick, Troy Davidson, David Deville, Eileen Haynes, Kim Kimble, Vera Marie LaCour, Kayla Murphy, Bob Pearce, John Scott Repp, Laurie Weaver, Jack Welch, and John Williams.

"There's not going to be a SUGB election because there are only seven candidates and seven positions," said Soileau. New SUGB Senators-at-Large are: Jon Robbins, Jeff Albrecht, Skippy Waters, David Nardini, Bubba Soileau, Janice Duggan, and Stephanie Samuels.

ADOS and Warrington campuses in Shreveport will be allowed to vote for Secretary and Treasurer in the SGA election on March 17.

NSU GETS RED MEASLES SCARE

State Health Department officials from across the state buzzed Northwestern, La. Tech, and LSU in an effort to halt a potential Red Measles epidemic that threatened NSU in the fall semester. As of press time, the problem has apparently died and the threat of spread of Red Measles is all but gone.

A Baylor University girl, subjected to, and eventually contracting Red Measles had contact with most of the members of Phi Mu sorority at an October 1, 1982 "Big Sis-Little Sis" retreat just outside of Natchitoches. The girl, a former resident of Natchitoches, and now a student in Waco, Texas, was in town visiting friends at the time.

When she returned to Baylor, she became sick with a case of Red Measles, and it was at this point that all the local attention came to light. State Health Department officials called people in Natchitoches and determined exactly who had been exposed to the girl. Twenty-six members of Phi Mu were asked to return home on October 11, 1982 because of their exposure. Several other NSU students, as well as one from La. Tech and LSU were also contacted by the Health Department and urged to "get home."

According to Dorsey Wilmarth, editor of Baylor's campus newspaper, THE LARIAT, an epidemic of Red Measles had been at Baylor since around September 18. The disease is believed to have been brought by a student who was a missionary in the Honduras this summer.

When the news of the Baylor coed's illness reached the Health Department officials, they immediately reached the Phi Mu's and had members sign a list at their October 10 meeting, stating "whether or not they were at the retreat and if they talked to the girl (the Baylor student)", according to Deanna Gray, an NSU Phi Mu.

Deana added, "The list went to the Natchitoches Health Unit who checked the student's records and those who had not received Measles inoculations were asked to 'not got to class — leave town until Monday, which was October 18.'"

Some students who had received the Red Measles inoculation were still asked to leave campus, however. According to NSU Registrar, Dr. Austin Temple, "The problem with this is that some students were inoculated before their first birthdays. Three or four years later, doctors found that that shot was not effective when given to children under one year old."

Temple said that there were four categories of Phi Mu's — those who had only been inoculated before their first birthday, those inoculated after their first birthdays, those who have not been inoculated at all, and those who have previously had Red Measles."

An LSU student had a date with the girl on the night after the Phi Mu retreat, and a Tech student, as well as several other NSU students, were around the couple most of the night. The LSU student, and the Tech student were determined not to be susceptible to the Red Measles and after initially being asked to leave the school, the LSU student was quickly reinstated.

Since the first outbreak of measles at Baylor, 5,800 students out of an approximate total of 10,500 have been inoculated. Wilmarth said that inoculation units had been set at various points around campus to make inoculations more easily accessible. As of October 5, 1982 Dorsey said, there had been "26 confirmed cases of Red Measles, 28 suspected cases, and 21 probable cases."

There were also a few cases reported in nearby community colleges and three cases in high school districts. There have been no cases reported by any other schools in the Southwest Conference, of which Baylor is a member, thus voiding speculation that exposure to the measles at football games would lead to other outbreaks.

Wilmarth also said that the Baylor epidemic was appearing to be getting "under control".

The epidemic that caught Baylor by surprise, was virtually prevented here at NSU. According to Temple, Red Measles is "pretty serious with young adults." Red Measles makes a person susceptible to other diseases like encephalitis."

Jo Hargis, a nurse at the Natchitoches Health Unit said that Red Measles is contracted from a carrier "during the incubation period, which lasts from seven to 14 days." The disease is not contracted from someone who already shows symptoms of the disease, "high fever, rashes, and feeling quite sick," Nurse Hargis said.

As of this writing, no NSU students have come down with Red Measles. The students who were asked to leave school all returned a full 18 days after their initial exposure to the disease.

"The girls were very cooperative," Dr. Temple said, and he added, "We've contacted all of their instructors and they won't miss any classes."

NSU ENROLLMENT DROPS

NSU had an enrollment of 6,481 students on the 14th day of class in the fall semester, according to Dr. Austin F. Temple, Office of the Registrar.

This is a decrease of 3.6% compared to fall 1981 semester's enrollment of 6,722.

Of the 6,481 students 4,838 are undergraduate students and 1,643 are graduate students.

Dr. Temple believes there are several reasons for the decrease in students. One of the reasons was in the fall of 1981 there was a higher enrollment among graduate students because of the Pips Program. This year there was a lot of undecisiveness among the State legislation as to whether or not Gov. Treen would pass the Pips bill. This caused several teachers to either postpone taking the PIPs classes or to take them in the summer. Due to this there was a slight increase among graduate students during the summer session.

GRADUATION

Family and friends gather in NSU's Prather Coliseum as students and faculty participate in Spring 1982 Commencement exercises.

Kristy Towry headed the list of seniors who received degrees at Northwestern's spring 1982 commencement exercises. Miss Towry graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree in Math and maintained a 4.0 average throughout her college career. Denise Clifton was the second ranking graduate with a 3.99 grade point average. Miss Clifton received a Bachelor of Science degree in dietetics and institution management. Keynote speaker for the spring commencement exercises was Mrs. Anne Willet, a member of the Louisiana Board of Trustees for State Colleges and Universities.

At NSU's summer commencement exercises, Vicki Lewis headed the list as top graduate, earning a Bachelor of Science degree in Chemistry and maintaining a 4.0 grade point average. Roy G. Beck, Jr., of Alexandria was the second-ranking graduate with a 3.92 grade point average. Mr. Beck received a Bachelor of Arts degree in general studies. NSU's third-ranking graduate was Myrtle J. Gauntt of Converse, who received a Bachelor of Science degree in accounting and business administration. Keynote speaker for the summer commencement exercises was Dr. June Moore of Jennings, a member of the Board of Trustees for Louisiana Colleges and Universities.

GRADUATION

Keynote speaker for summer commencement exercises, Dr. June Moore, Dr. Joseph Orze, Northwestern president, and Miss Vicki Lewis, top graduate.

Patti Walsh of Houston, Texas, who received a Bachelor of Science degree in computer science and business administration, was the top graduate at Northwestern State University's winter commencement exercises. Miss Walsh maintained a 3.96 grade point average during her university career.

The second-ranking graduate was Elizabeth Taylor of Natchitoches, who received a Bachelor of Science degree as a speech, hearing and language specialist. Miss Taylor maintained a 3.95 grade point average. Karen Kay Schauer of Bossier City was NSU's third ranking graduate with a 3.93 grade point average. Miss Schauer received a Bachelor of Science degree in nursing.

Keynote speaker for Northwestern's winter commencement exercises was Dr. Joseph Orze, NSU president.

ADMINISTRATION

EDITED BY LEANN GRAY

Greetings to NSU Faculty, Students, Staff and Alumni:

This year's POTPOURRI is a special one for every one connected with Northwestern State University's many years of service to Louisiana. Since 1884, Louisiana marked years of accomplishment in education at Northwestern and its predecessor normal school. As a university Northwestern strove to reach new heights as an educational institution in many fields which contributed to the growth of our state. Northwestern had an important place in the Treen family because my mother, Elizabeth Conner Speir, was educated there as she began her career in teaching. Northwestern looks fondly at the past and optimistically at the future. New programs on the campus, such as the state's High School for Mathematics, Science and the Arts, are just beginning to break new ground in service to Louisiana. This year's anniversary salute is well-earned, and we look forward to many more years like the past seventy-five.

Sincerely,

David C. Treen

Dear Northwestern Community Members:

First years in any new experience are eye openers. They are times of new faces, places and experience, and they are exciting.

My first year at Northwestern has been a very exciting, challenging and rewarding experience for me. The Northwestern and Natchitoches communities have opened their arms and hearts to me and my family. You have accepted us and made us feel that we really do belong and that we can make a contribution to the University and its future. I am grateful for the confidence you have shown in me and the cooperation you have given in moving to meet the University's future.

Students, you are the reason I am here, because you are the University's reason for being. It may sound cliché-st to speak of the University Family, but that is what we are. When you graduate, other students will follow in your footsteps and also create new ones on the campuses, in the classrooms, on the athletic fields and throughout the University. However, you will still be a part of the University Family, and we trust you will always be close in heart if not in distance.

My eyes are open, and I like what I see at Northwestern and for its future. Thanks to all for helping to make it possible.

Most sincerely,

JOSEPH J. ORZE
President

Standing: Noel Orze, Craig Orze, Mrs. Joseph Orze, and Mark Orze. Seated: Dr. Joseph Orze.

Dr. and Mrs. Orze were very proud to have their sons and daughter attend Dr. Orze's inauguration. Mark Orze, the oldest of the Orze children, worked in Massachusetts as a bank manager. Craig Orze attended the Massachusetts Maritime Academy. The youngest in the Orze family, Noelle, majored in marketing at Northwestern State University.

Tom Paul Southerland

TOM PAUL SOUTHERLAND

The major purpose of the Vice President of Academic Affairs was to work toward achievement of academic programs of excellence with integrity. To accomplish this, the office was responsible for planning, developing, recommending, and implementing the instructional program of the University. Dr. Thomas P. Sutherland kept the President informed on all matters pertaining to the operation of the instructional organization and referred all matters of policy development or change to him for final approval.

Dr. Sutherland also coordinated and cooperated with administrators of non-instructional divisions of the University so as to advance the general objectives of the University.

The Vice President of Fiscal Affairs was responsible for all fiscal matters at the University, and coordinated all activities of the offices of Comptroller, Personnel, Purchasing, Physical Plant, University Police, University Printing, and Auxiliary Enterprises. As part of the fiscal responsibilities, the Vice President was also responsible for the preparation of all budgets, as well as the follow-up on actual performance.

Jerry Pierce

Jerry Pierce was appointed to the office of Assistant to the President on External Affairs; the first one in several years. The purpose of this office was to project the image of Northwestern to the public and outside agencies. The duties of this office included reports dealing with University activities and acting as liaison between the public and President Orze.

BASIC STUDIES

Richard H. Gallows

The Primary purpose of the College of Education was to prepare well-qualified teachers for the elementary and secondary schools of Louisiana and to offer services to school systems in a continuous effort to improve the total education program. Most of the pre-student teaching laboratory experiences required in many of the education classes were provided in the Northwestern Elementary School, Northwestern Middle School, and Natchitoches-Central High School. Student teaching was done in public schools within the 14 parish area served by the university. This exchange of students and services was not only beneficial to teacher candidates but also to area schools.

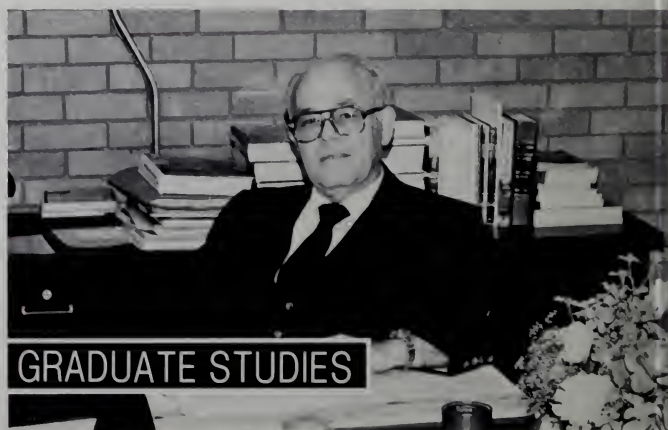

Many students entering college had not decided on a career and were not sure about the curriculum they would follow. One function of the College of Basic Studies was to assist in choosing their major fields. The student's adviser assisted in identifying interests, abilities, and aptitudes and in selecting courses which might apply toward graduation.

The College of Business provided instruction for careers in various business and administrative fields. Accounting, finance, management, computer science, marketing, business education, and secretarial administration were among the choice of fields a student could select from.

The Graduate School maintained the philosophy that graduate study was much more than a mere continuation of undergraduate work. It was nurtured by a spirit of inquiry and the desire to contribute to human knowledge. It was considered only by those students who had already demonstrated in their undergraduate careers high intellectual achievements and the capability of independent thought.

The College of Science and Technology dealt mainly with allied Health Professions, Agriculture, Biological Sciences, Chemistry, Physics, Geology, Industrial Education, Microbiology, and Biochemistry. Math and Psychology were also headed by this department.

LIBERAL ARTS

George C. Stokes

The College of Liberal Arts was responsible for the administrative and academic direction of ten departments of instruction. There were Art, Dance, History, Languages, Mass Communications, Military Science, Music, Social Science, Sociology and Social Work, and Theatre and Speech. Four of the departments were further organized into the School of Creative and Performing Arts: Art, Dance, Music, and Theatre and Speech.

The College of Nursing provided educational programs directed toward assisting the students in achieving their career goals in nursing and in becoming responsible and contributing members of their profession and society. Northwestern's nursing programs grew from long range planning by communities which saw the need for improvement in nursing services and better educational opportunities for prospective nurses.

DEAN OF STUDENTS

Frederick Bosarge

The Office of Dean of Students concerned itself primarily with the general welfare of students and the quality of student life at Northwestern. Dean Frederick Bosarge worked to insure that a wide variety of out-of-classroom activities and learning opportunities were available, and also focused on insuring that the range and quality of nonacademic services available to students was the best that Northwestern resources would allow. Areas reporting directly to the Dean of Students were Student Activities, Student Services, Placement, and the Bookstore. The Dean advised the Student Government Association, Blue Key and the Cheerleaders. He also was the major administrative liaison between the student body and the President and other top level administrators.

The University Bookstore, located on the ground floor of the Student Union, was opened from 7:30 am to 5:30 pm weekdays. Textbooks, as well as NSU gift items, school supplies, and knick knacks were also found there. The Bookstore stressed courteous, helpful service and is The Northwestern Store.

The Computer Center was a University-wide service facility located in Kyser Hall. The basis of the Center was a Burroughs B1885 dual processor computing system which had main memory auxiliary disc storage, remote television keyboard terminals, magnetic tape drives and electronic data processing equipment. The Center served as an administrative and instructional facility, provided computer support for student, faculty, and institutional research, and performed other computer services required by the University.

All press releases pertaining to NSU's students, faculty, and issues were the News Bureau's responsibilities. This office also edits the alumni paper, publishes a campus newsletter, and a weekly calendar of campus events, and prepares most printed materials distributed by the University.

The office of Student Activities and Organizations served as a clearing house for chartered organizations on campus. It also coordinated sorority rush in the fall semester, advised the Panhellenic Chapter throughout the year, and worked closely with the Student Union Governing Board by being their advisor. It participated in such activities as "Welcome Back Day," "Family Day," "Christmas Festival Day," "Greek Week," and "Union Week." It interpreted policies concerning student activities, student conduct, and rules governing social functions. Last but not least, it served as a resource person.

REGISTRAR

UNIVERSITY PRESS

John Price, Mrs. Carol Wells, Mrs. Susan Eitel, Ezra Adams.

The Registrar, Austin Temple, and his staff worked diligently throughout the year to keep things running smoothly at NSU. The primary responsibility of this office was registration. The Registrar's office also maintained the academic records of each student. This included checking grades after each semester and checking to be sure all candidates for graduation met curriculum requirements.

University Press was established to publish and disseminate results of scholarly research and other material which was beneficial to students, researchers, and others. Most of this type of material was not considered by trade publishers to be popular enough for the large number of sales necessary for a sizable business profit. That was the basic reason for the existence of the Northwestern State University Press. It began functioning in 1979, after being officially created in 1978, and, by our press time, had published seven books, with several others in various stages of planning and production.

The Office of Enrollment Management served Northwestern by providing general information to the public about NSU, as well as providing specific information in various areas of interest to prospective students. The short range goal of the Office of Enrollment Management was to take prospective students through a series of steps ending with the application for admission and enrollment by the student. The Office of Enrollment Management also processed all applications for scholarships and conducted large campus tours such as Demon Connection.

CENTER FOR THE HISTORY OF LOUISIANA EDUCATION

Thomas Roberts, Tina Shirley, Maxine Southerland, Director, Dee Dee Swindoll.

Northwestern was chosen as the site for the Center for the History of Louisiana Education. As Louisiana's first "Normal School", NSU was recognized for its achievements in professional education. The main purpose of the center was to establish a facility that would visually portray the stages of development in public, parochial and private education.

CONTROLLER

Carol Deloney, Louise Parker, Betty Durham, Pam Moore, Carl Jones, Tammy Dauzart, Cathy Boswell, Henry Tazman

EXTERNAL AFFAIR

Gracie Hicks, Susie Eitel, Ray Carney, Leigh Shelton, Bill Cross

The Controller's Office was the main accountant for the university. They collected fees and paid all university bills, as well as took care of registration fees, student payrolls, and scholarship checks. They also kept accounts for all student organizations.

The office of External Affairs helped the general public, alumni, and public officials become and remain knowledgeable about the university's operations. The NSU Foundation was established in 1960 to serve as a continuing and regular channel through which interested individuals, groups, and organizations could extend help in all forms to the University.

The Grounds Department maintained the campus grounds, all grass mowing, hedge trimming, tree maintenance and removal, flower beds, and special projects concerning these related items. These people are also directly responsible for all street and sidewalk repair. The grounds department also took care of all setups and takedown of concerts, graduation, registration, and such related functions. They also maintained trash pickup of the entire campus. They also were responsible for all moving of furniture, or related items being moved anywhere on campus. These 17 people kept very busy year round.

The Center for Continuing Education and Community Services extended the academic resources and opportunities of NSU to persons other than regularly enrolled students on the Natchitoches campus. Specific course offerings, conferences, workshops, institutes, and similar educational presentations were available upon request through this office. All faculty involved in Continuing Education programs at NSU were fully qualified, and most were full-time members of the academic departments of the University.

The University Police department performed basically the same function as any other law enforcement agency. In addition, activities included those peculiar to Northwestern, the academic institution. Not only did it thus respond to required law enforcement services, preserve the peace, and protect life and property but it also enforced in a fair and impartial manner the regulations which comprise the Code of Student Conduct, as well as the statutes and ordinances of the State of Louisiana and the City of Natchitoches.

The Post Office was one of the busiest places on campus due to people checking their post office boxes throughout the day. Every student had the opportunity to rent a box before each semester. Operating as a branch of the Natchitoches Post Office, the NSU branch offered nearly everything one might have found at the main post office. Window service was available Monday through Friday between the hours of 8:50 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. Students bought stamps, registered, certified, or insured letters or packages. To maintain the post office as an efficient operation, four civil service and six student workers were employed.

Northwestern State University was served by Professional Food Service Management. They had a multi-faceted operation consisting of the Student Union and Iberville cafeterias. Iberville was the main operation and served everything from breakfast to steak. The recreation complex was seasonal and served fast food in the small snack bar. All of the management team had one goal in common and that was to make the food service at Northwestern the best. The management was always open to suggestions and comments. They believed this helped to make the food service more enjoyable.

Opal Gimbert takes the blood pressure of one of her many patients.

The Infirmary at Northwestern, under the direction of Ms. Gimbert, was of great service to the campus. Students could always turn to the infirmary for the relief of colds, aches, fever and many other minor illnesses. In the case of a serious illness a doctor was just a phone call away. Ms. Gilbert never hesitated when it came to keeping NSU students on their feet and going.

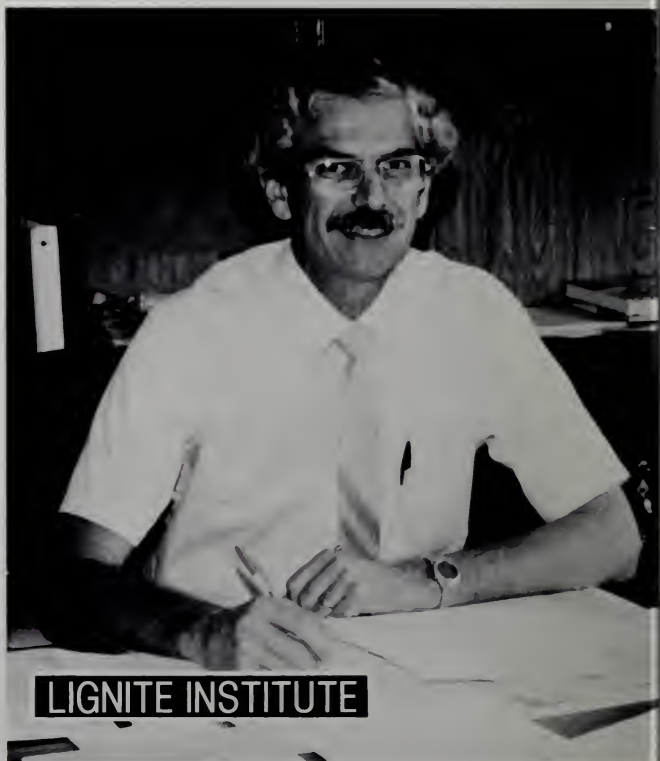

The Television Center, located in Kyser Hall, served a two-fold purpose at NSU. One, it was a teaching facility for students in Mass Communications as well as other departments. Secondly, it served as a center for the production and screening of instructional television programming. The Television Center had black and white as well as color production equipment and electronic editing facilities.

The Eugene P. Waston Memorial Library was a 3-story modular structure with a floor area of approximately 8,826 square meters. It provided comfortable seating for over 1,000 students and had a book capacity of more than 350,000 volumes. More than 2,500 periodicals, a large U.S. Documents Collection, 100,000 volumes in microform, and several thousand audio-visual items were also available. There were eleven professional library faculty members and sixteen paraprofessional staff members.

LIGNITE INSTITUTE

Dr. David Dobbins, Director of the Institute of Lignite Research and Development.

The Institute of Lignite Research and Development was a consortium that consisted of Grambling State University, Louisiana Tech University, Northeast Louisiana University, and Northwestern State University. This office sought to provide leadership in research, development, and service capabilities essential to the balanced industrial development of lignite in northern Louisiana.

The Student Financial Aid Office administered financial aid to students. This aid included scholarships, student loans, supplemental grants, student employment, basic grants, nursing students loans, federally insured loans, and various out-of-state loans. Additional assistance was obtainable through graduate assistantships and the student association short term loan fund.

The American Language and Orientation Center was established to help foreign students acquire knowledge of the English Language which was necessary to complete a regular curricula. Students accepted by ALOC became regular NSU students. They were provided with beginning, intermediate, and advanced levels of English instruction. Upon completion of ALOC requirements students transferred to the curriculum of their choice.

EDITED BY JANICE WILLIAMS

Ed Dupuis, Editor-in-Chief

LeAnn Gray, Managing Editor

The first POTPOURRI was published in 1909 when Northwestern State University was Louisiana State Normal School. Seventy-five years passed and this was the seventy-second volume of the POTPOURRI printed.

On February 4, 1982, Northwestern's Publication Committee selected Ed Dupuis to serve as Editor-in-chief for the 1983 POTPOURRI. Ed then chose the spring staff of section editors. LeAnn Gray was chosen as Managing Editor, Janice Williams as Organization Editor, and Monica Bartee as Greek Editor.

POTPOURRI received a fee increase in the Spring of 1982. This increase was desperately needed due to the rising cost of publication. Even with this increase the 1983 staff was forced to cut back on the size of the POTPOURRI.

The 1983 staff worked hard and long to make the Seventy-fifth Anniversary of the POTPOURRI a very special one. Everyone prided themselves on creating a unique book that was outstanding to all past POTPOURRI's.

The Current Sauce began in 1914 as a four page tabloid published twice a month. It served then as the official publication of the Contemporary Life Club of Louisiana State Normal College. A key figure in founding the newspaper was Dr. Alfred St. Amant, a professor at the college. The paper was supported from ads, subscriptions, and the Contemporary Life Club until 1918 when funds were provided from student fees.

The Current Sauce continued to serve as the official newspaper for NSU students during the 1982-83 school year.

The paper was published weekly during the spring and fall semesters and bi-monthly during the summer semester.

The Northwestern chapter of Blue Key National Honor Fraternity was begun in 1959 by Leonard O. Nichols, then Dean of Men, as a national honor fraternity. The organization was to promote service to the University and to fellow students. The requirements for membership included a 2.6 GPA, membership in at least two campus organizations, and officer position in one organization, affirmation of 90% of the chapter, and junior or senior standing. Blue Key's primary function was the free tutoring program for students. The club also provided assistance at registration and graduation. The chapter also furnished a variety of goodwill services to the Nat-chitoches community.

With the construction of a new Student Union building in 1968, a group of concerned students formed the Student Union Governing Board. This organization was established to provide social activities for students such as dances, concerts, and fine art presentations. It received its charter in 1970 and consisted of five executive officers, seven representatives, and nine functioning committees.

Although the composition of the SUGB changed somewhat over the years, it continued to offer a wide variety of social activities and events to NSU students during the 1982-83 school year. These events included movies, concerts, dances, exhibits, office house acts, and fine art presentations.

ALPHA KAPPA ALPHA

Alpha Kappa Alpha, founded at Howard University, on January 16, 1908, firmly upheld the standard of God first, people second, myself last. Their colors, Salmon pink and apple green, stood for high scholastic achievement. As a sorority of sisterhood, they were dedicated to "The Service of all Mankind."

The AKA Pledges take time to pose for a picture.

ALPHA PHI ALPHA

Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity was founded on December 4, 1906 at Cornell University in Ithaca, New York by Henry Callis, Charles Chapman, Eugene Jones, George Kelly, Nathaniel Murray, Robert Ogle, and Vertner Tandy. These seven were known as the Jewels. Alpha Phi Alpha's motto was First of All, Servants of All, We Shall Transend All.

Alpha Phi Alpha, being the first of all black greek organizations, has attracted many of the most predominant black men. Men such as Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., Thurgood Marshall, Dick Gregory, Maynard Jackson, Ernest Morial, Andrew Young, and W.E.B. Dubois were all Alpha Phi Alphas during their colligate years.

The fraternity contributes to the National Urban League, the United Negro College Fund, and the NAACP. Their colors were black and old gold.

DELTA SIGMA THETA

Delta Sigma Theta was founded in 1913 at Howard University. The founders envisioned an organization of college women pledged to serious endeavor and community service. They also demonstrated a vital concern for social welfare, academic excellence, and cultural enrichment, de-emphasizing the social side of sorority life. In 1930, Delta Sigma Theta was incorporated, making it a public service organization.

Delta Sigma Theta did many service projects such as collecting money for the Cane River Children's Center. On Northwestern's Campus, they sponsored Health Fairs, Jabberwocks, Greek Shows, Sophisticated Gents Pageants, and celebrated their Founders Week.

Their flower is a peppermint carnation and their colors are red and white.

DELTA ZETA

The Delta Zetas

OFFICERS - Seated: President, Stacia Caldwell. Standing, Left to Right: Secretary, Pam Strange, Pledge Trainer, Debbie Keene, Treasurer, Helene Morgan.

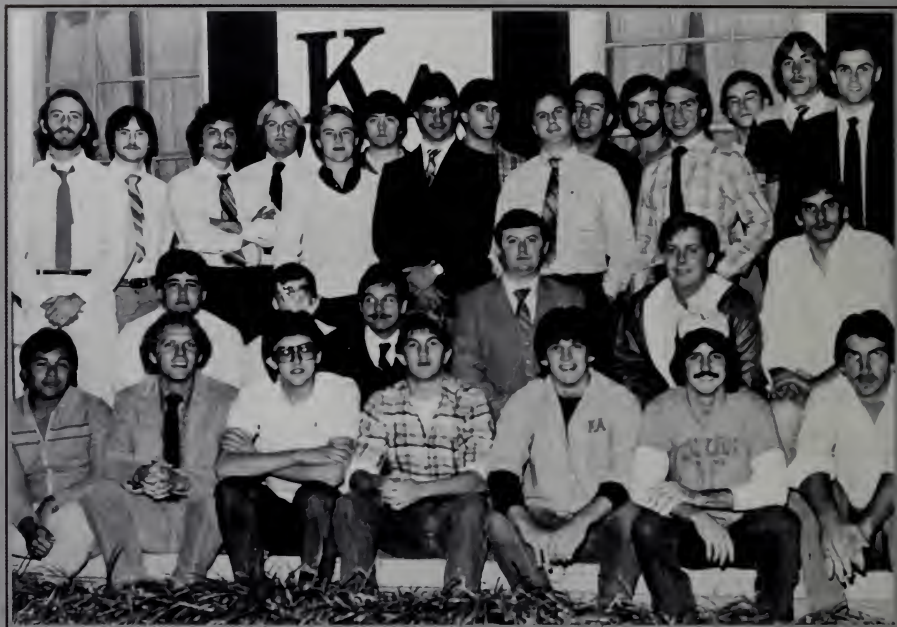

Delta Zeta Sorority was founded on October 24, 1902 at Miami University in Oxford, Ohio. Delta Zeta was the second largest national sorority in the country and was the oldest on the N.S.U. campus. Gaulludette College for the deaf in Washington, D.C. was their national philanthropy. This year Delta Zeta had several fund raisers to aid this school. In addition to their usual 10 mile walk-a-thon, they collected Dimes for the Deaf in Natchitoches.

Delta Zeta stayed active in all of the activities on campus. Last year they won second place in the Greek Week Song Fest and took top honors in the spirit competition.

As usual, they had a notable social calendar, having several fall parties, a gala Christmas party, and a wonderful Spring Formal.

KAPPA ALPHA

Kappa Alpha was founded in 1865 at Washington and Lee University. The spiritual founder was Robert Edward Lee of Old Virginia. KA had its roots in very historical traditions. NSU's Gamma Psi Chapter of Kappa Alpha Order has also initiated some of its own traditions.

The KA's featured a Boxing Tournament in the spring with all proceeds going to the Muscular Dystrophy Association. It was unique in that it was the only one of its kind in the nation.

Although the KA's did a lot of work, there was still time for a social life. A good example was their "Old South Ball," which was held in the spring. This included a week of festivities celebrating their traditional heritage. During the Christmas Festival Weekend, a "gumbo house" party was held for families and KA alumni.

KAPPA ALPHA PSI

Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Inc. was started by ten noble men at Indiana University during the school year of 1910-1911. The unified efforts of these men to advance academic and social achievement among college men was the start of a national fraternity that was serving mankind in every field of moral endeavor throughout the world.

The Theta Lambda Chapter was founded at N.S.U. in 1974. The fundamental purpose was achievement. Essentially, it was a brotherhood, characterised by idealism, sociality and altruism.

Their activities included dances at the Cane River Children's Home and many other community projects.

Phi Mu Fraternity was founded at Northwestern in 1960. 1983 marked the fifteenth anniversary of this founding and the Ladies of Phi Mu celebrated this by incorporating it into their annual Mother-Daughter Banquet. All of the alumni were invited as well as the girls and their mothers.

Phi Mu's national philanthropy was Project Hope. The girls worked hard to raise money for this worthwhile project and also helped the Cane River Children's Home by holding a Rock-a-thon.

Phi Mu was represented in many campus organizations including SGA, SUGB, Purple Jackets, Potpourri, LOB and various other clubs.

SIGMA KAPPA

The Sigma Kappas

Sigma Kappa Sorority, founded in Waterville, Maine in 1874, has been a part of Northwestern's Greek system since 1959. Sigma Kappa focused on the growth and strength of its sisterhood. Activities such as the Week of Giving, Alumni Reunion, and Family Day were annual events that strengthened them as a group. The Week of Giving, November 9, was a week in honor of Sigma Kappa's Founder's Day. Service throughout the week was extended to the campus, alumni, the community and to each other. Family Day brought all of their parents together to share what Sigma Kappa meant to them. The Alumni Reunion united those Sigma Kappas who actively participated as collegians years ago. Activities such as parties, social functions, and Rush, to name a few, were the aspects of Sigma Kappa that was seen by others. Friendship and sisterhood was what they shared and believed in.

Sigma Sigma Sigma Social Sorority was founded on April 20, 1898 at Farmville, Virginia. The Alpha Zeta Chapter at N.S.U. was very active throughout the year. A successful rush was enjoyed at the beginning of the fall semester. "Big Sis — Lil Sis" was an exciting night for the pledges as their "Big Sis" was revealed to them. Sigmas and their dates had a great time at the Fall Harvest Dance and the Spring Formal. Other activities included early morning kidnappings, holiday parties, the annual Mardi Gras Dance, Send-On, and Greek Week. National Activities included Regional Leadership School, Convention, and Founder's Day. The Alpha Zeta Chapter was also the winner of the "Chapter Excellence Award," which was awarded to the outstanding chapter in the nation.

SIGMA TAU GAMMA

The Nu Chapter of Sigma Tau Gamma, established in 1929, is the oldest social fraternity at Northwestern. They promoted high ideals of manhood, brotherhood, and citizenship.

Annual activities sponsored by the Sig Tau's included the White Rose Formal, Rum Runner's Party, Alumni-Homecoming Party, and exchanges with social sororities on N.S.U.'s campus.

In the spring of 1982, Sigma Tau Gamma's White Rose Formal honored past advisor, J. W. Johnson. Janet LeBlanc was named Sigma Tau Gamma White Rose.

During the fall of 1982, the Sig Tau's manned a booth at the Louisiana State Fair in Shreveport for the 1983 Natchitoches Folk Festival. They also collected money with other Northwestern Greeks for the Natchitoches Christmas Festival.

OFFICERS — Kneeling: Jimmy Hartline, Treasurer. Standing: Jeff Fonda; Records, Jim Hollier; Education, Jeff Albrecht; President, Jack Welch; President.

TAU KAPPA EPSILON

The Epsilon Upsilon Chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon made its first appearance on the Northwestern State University campus in 1956. TKE since then has grown to become very active in every aspect of campus life. Brothers are involved in SGA, SUGB, Blue Key, IFC, Phi Eta Sigma, and many other organizations and activities.

"Not for wealth, rank, or honor, but for personal worth and character," is what it means to be a Tau Kappa Epsilon.

THETA CHI

Theta Chi Fraternity, the fraternity of the Helping Hand, had been in existence at Northwestern since February 13, 1960. They have been active in many campus organizations and activities since then.

Theta Chi contributed to the Lion's Club Crippled Childrens Camp semesterly with clean-ups and work projects. They also hosted a Halloween Party for the Natchitoches Area Retarded Citizens.

An annual event that strengthened their brotherhood was the Toilet Bowl Football Game with their brothers at Centenary during State Fair Weekend. They also sponsored a booth at the Christmas Festival and the Natchitoches Folk Festival.

The Daughters and Little Sis' of Theta Chi help promote the Brothers of Eta Omicron Chapter.

ZETA PHI BETA

Zeta Phi Beta Sorority was organized at Howard University on January 16, 1920 as the result of the encouragement given to the five founders. Zeta Phi Beta was the first Greek letter college sorority organized in Africa. The objectives of finer womanhood, sisterly love, and scholarship have brought together women from all parts of the world country who have similar tastes and aspirations for higher achievement.

The ladies of Zeta Phi Beta were active in many activities at N.S.U. They sponsored and participated in many Greek shows, participated in the Natchitoches Northwestern Christmas Fund Drive, and belong to many organizations on campus.

Zeta Phi Beta believed that you could attain your goals if you believe in yourself. Their colors were royal blue and white.

EDITED BY CARLA ERICKSON AND KRISTINE LEONE

NSU vs. Mississippi College

Turpin Stadium

Natchitoches, La.

September 4, 1982

In the first game of the season, the Demons played Mississippi College for the first meeting ever between the two schools. The Demons went into the game slightly favored and were almost upset, scoring the winning touchdown with only 59 seconds left on the clock to escape with a 24-20 win. NSU then had to wait out a last minute drive by the Choctaws which ended when the last second pass attempt by Tommy Nester was intercepted by Demon safety Michael Richardson to preserve the 24-20 win.

The offensive and defensive players of the game for the Demons were sophomore running back LeRoy Ellis and senior defensive end David Grappe. Grappe was in on 14 tackles, caused a fumble, recovered a fumble, had two tackles behind the line of scrimmage, and had one pass break-up. Ellis had an all-around game as a rusher and a pass receiver. He had 30 yards running on six carries for an average of 5 yards with a touchdown run in the second quarter.

Quarterback Stan Powell completed 20 of 38 passes during the game against Mississippi College for 259 yards and two scores. Powell had no interceptions during the game.

NSU vs. Angelo State

San Angelo Stadium

Angelo, Texas

September 11, 1982

Quarterback Stan Powell passes for a hopeful connection.

Head Coach A. L. Williams pointed to a lack of intensity and breakdowns on several key plays as the main reasons for the 26-17 loss suffered to Angelo State. Coach Williams also stated, "We played very poorly on offense and on defense we played well with the exception of some, key, important third down plays."

Demon Stan Powell hit 20 of 38 passes for 29 yards and tossed two scoring passes with no interceptions. The Demons gained 124 yards but lost 41 in sacks. Angelo State got a good performance from running backs Eddie O'Brien and Ernest Pennington. O'Brien gained 123 yards on 22 carries and scored two touchdowns, one rushing and one receiving. Pennington had 16 attempts for 66 yards and rushed for three touchdowns.

The Demon players of the week were defensive end David Grappe and tight end Jimmy Blackwell on offense. Grappe was credited by the NSU coaches with a grade of over 80 percent, 16 tackles, three behind the line, and two quarterback sacks. Blackwell had his best game receiving as he hauled in six passes for 85 yards. Blackwell is the top Demon receiver after two games with 10 catches for 134 yards and one score.

At a later date the Rams were forced to forfeit because of an ineligible player. The Demons now stand 4-1.

NSU vs. Stephen F. Austin

Lumberjack Stadium

Nacogdoches, Texas

September 18, 1982

Northwestern's 28-14 win over Stephen F. Austin was the seventh straight win in the series for the Demons over the Lumberjacks. The seven-game winning streak by the Demons matched the longest in the series, as Northwestern also won seven straight from 1927 to 1934. It also marked the seventh win for Coach A. L. Williams over the Lumberjacks in his eight years at Northwestern.

Head Coach A. L. Williams stated, "I thought we played very good over the final 12 minutes and the kids really made the big plays when they had to. We still lack consistency on offense. I thought our defense front played very well for the second straight week."

Quarterback Stan Powell hit 20 of 33 passes for 290 yards, had two touchdowns, and gained 51 yards rushing for a total offense of 341 yards. Powell averaged 209.3 yards per game in total offense.

Victor Oatis had his game against the Lumberjacks with six catches for 144 yards and two touchdowns, including a 67-yarder from Powell in the second period. Oatis set the single season receiving record last year. Dale Quickel hit both of his field goal attempts in the game, connecting from 22 to and 41 yards. This gave him 21 career field goals trying the all-time career mark of Randy Walker set from 1970-78. Quickel held 10 NSU school records in kicking and kick scoring.

The players of the week were end David Grappe on defense and tightend Jimmy Blackwell on offense. This was Grappe's 3rd week earning the defensive award and Blackwell's second week winning the offense award.

NSU VS. ABILENE CHRISTIAN

Turpin Stadium

Natchitoches, Louisiana

September 25, 1982

This was the first appearance for Abilene Christian as a Demon Homecoming Opponent.

Head Coach A. L. Williams stated after the game, "We knew it would be a hard fought game and we were happy with the win. It is tough to keep to your offensive game play when your quarterback and top receiver are not in the game, but I give the kids a lot of credit for sticking in there and scoring as much as we needed to for the win."

The players of the week were Sophomore noseguard Author "Tank" Berry and tailback LeRoy Ellis. Berry was selected for his play on defense. Ellis was selected on offense. Ellis scored two touchdowns, caught four passes and rushed for 76 yards.

Wide receiver Victor Oatis had two receptions, one for a 52 yard score from Powell and the other a 70 yard strike from Leonard. Oatis has raised his average yards per catch to 25.7 after Saturday night's win. For the season after four games Oatis had 13 catches for 335 yards and four touchdowns. Oatis had 15 career touchdown receptions. Tightend Jimmy Blackwell leads the team in number of receptions, 18 passes for 223 yards and two scores.

The Demons had six interceptions Saturday night to set a Demon single game record. Michael Richardson had two of the six, giving him four on the season. End Karl Lane and defensive backs Tommy Rushing, David Hennigan and Spencer Mallett had the other thefts.

Tailback LeRoy Ellis continues as the leading ground gainer for the Demons as he now has 268 yards on 76 carries. Ellis scored on one touchdown rushing and one receiving, to give his six touchdowns in four games.

As a team the Demons were averaging 353.5 yards per contest in total offense, gaining 245.3 per game passing and 109.3 per outing on the ground.

Wayne Van throws for a pass.

With the top three quarterbacks out with injuries, Northwestern State sophomore Wayne Van put some impressive statistics on the board, despite the 24-20 loss to East Texas State.

"We felt like we needed two touchdowns and a field goal to win," stated Williams. "And I was happy with the play of Wayne and our offense. Wayne executed well enough for us to win. There were times when he did not do some things, but that's what we expected. He gave us an outstanding effort and will be a good quarterback."

Wayne Van completed 14 of 22 passes for 196 yards and two touchdowns, while throwing one interception. The scores came on a nine-yard pass to Jerry Wheeler and a 32-yard strike to Terry Joe Ramsey.

After five games wide receiver Victor Oatis lead the team in receiving yardage while tightend Jimmy Blackwell had the most catches. Oatis had 18 catches for 405 yards and four touchdowns while Blackwell had 20 receptions for 250 yards and two scores.

Tailback LeRoy Ellis had another strong all-around game last weekend and continues to lead the ground attack. Ellis now has 349 yards on 98 carries. Freshman Anthony Cheeks got his first carry of the season Saturday night and ended wity 20 yards on six attempts and caught one pass for 25 yards.

With two field goals and two PATs, Dale Quickel is now second in scoring with 30 points. Quickel became the all-time field goal leader with his first kick against East Texas. Quickel now has 23 career field goals, breaking the old mark of 21 set by Randy Walker. Quickel hit six of 10 attempts this season, including five of his last six attempts.

Roy Fontenot continued to lead the team in punt returns with an average of 14.6 yards on 11 returns, and in kickoff returns with an average of 18.2 yards per return. The Demons did not have any pass interceptions last week, leaving Michael Richardson as the team leader with four in five games.

Punter Leo Clement had his best night of the season at East Texas State, averaging 42 yards on five kicks. Clement is now averaging 39.32 yards on the season.

The defense is lead by David Grappe, the senior defensive end with 45 tackles in five games, including 11 tackles of losses. Richardson is second on the team with 32 tackles and all-american Gary Reasons has 31 tackles.

NSU vs McNeese State Cowboy Stadium Lake Charles, Louisiana October 9, 1982

Jones runs with the ball while Depree blocks.

Northwestern State sophomore return specialist Roy Fontenot was among the national leaders in both punt and kickoff returns.

In Saturday night's loss to McNeese State, Fontenot, playing in his hometown, had three punt returns for 33 yards, three kickoff returns for 102 yards, and four pass receptions for 84 yards. Fontenot was averaging 14.9 yards per punt return on 13 returns and had 9 kickoff returns for an average of 23.4 yards per return. In addition to that, his receiving totals stood at eight receptions for 137 yards.

Wide receiver, Victor Oatis was still the team leader in receiving yardage with 424 yards on 20 catches. Tightend Jimmy Blackwell was the reception leader with 23 catches for 324 yards.

The Demon rushing game was limited, held to minus yardage because of quarterbacks sacks. Tailback LeRoy Ellis was the rushing leader after 6 games with 356 on 105 attempts.

Despite not scoring, LeRoy Ellis was still the scoring leader with 36 points. Dale Quickel increased his total to 33 points by making his only field goal attempt, after missing only his second PAT of the season in 14 attempts.

On defense the tackle leader continued to be end David Grappe. In six games Grappe had 52 tackles, including 15 behind the line of scrimmage. Grappe also had recovered two fumbles and had one pass break-up. All-American Gary Reasons was second on the team with 43 tackles and free safety. Michael Richardson had 39 tackles and lead the team with four pass interceptions.

David Trappe, the NSU outstanding defensive end, was named as the defensive player of the week for the fourth time in six weeks after the loss to McNeese State. Roy Fontenot, a sophomore wide receiver and kick returner, was named as the Offensive player of the week for his play.

Coach Williams commented after the game, "We played with more intensity and effort than we had in the past weeks and that is encouraging."

NSU vs Louisiana Tech

Independence Stadium

Shreveport, Louisiana

October 23, 1982

It was a number of little things that led up to the big thing as Northwestern State saw its record fall to 5-3 on the season with the 33-0 loss to Louisiana Tech.

The Demons were unable to capitalize on four Bulldog turnovers in the first half and trailed 14-0 at half-time, and then the roof fell in the third period after a Demon field goal was blocked.

Northwestern missed a 32-yard field goal in the second period with the game scoreless, and soon after that Tech held a 14-0 advantage. It looked like the Demons might get back in the contest after recovering a Tech fumble at the Bulldog 17-yardline, early in the third period. But Dale Quickel's 42-yard three-point attempt was blocked and three plays later Tech pushed the margin to 21-0 and that set of plays took the wind out of the Demons.

"When the field goal was blocked you could really tell it took a lot out of us," said Demon Coach A. L. Williams. "We just didn't take advantage of the opportunities we had earlier in the game."

"By the end of the first period we could have had 14 points, our defense was giving us the football," added Williams. "But we could not make the big play or even the third and short situations." The Demons were hurt on one drive by a procedure penalty as they lined up for the fourth and inches situation and NSU ended up punting the ball away.

The Demons gained just 33 net yards on the night, failing to establish a running game of any sort. "Then when we were forced to pass we didn't pick up the blitz and didn't give our quarterbacks time to throw."

Williams used both junior Stan Powell and senior Bobby Hebert. Powell played the first half and Hebert most of the second two periods. "Neither Stan or Bobby were throwing well," stated Williams. "We should have been able to move the ball, we had receivers open. But most of the time we hurt ourselves with mistakes and failure to execute."

Powell completed half of his 26 passes for 113 yards, putting him over the 1,000 yard mark for the second straight year, only the second time that has been done by a Demon quarterback. Powell is currently fifth on the all-time list in pass completions and passing yardage.

Junior wide receiver Jerry Wheeler grabbed five passes for 80 yards. Wheeler also tried his hand at throwing the football, but one of his passes was incomplete and the other was tipped and then intercepted.

The Tech contest was a busy one for the Demon punter Leo Clement. Clement punted 10 times for an average of 41.2 yards per kick, with a best of 50 yards. After the safety late in the game Clement kicked off from the Demon 20-yardline and still sailed the kick into the endzone.

Hebert prepares to pass to a receiver.

Demon Robert Shaw expresses his spirit during the game.

It wasn't his best night of the season rushing, but Northwestern tailback LeRoy Ellis had the best night of his career scoring in the Demons' 28-7 win over Alcorn State.

The 180 pound sophomore rushed for three touchdowns to increase his team-leading point total to 54 points.

Stan Powell, who played most of the way at quarterback, now has 69 completions in 128 attempts for 945 yards and seven scores while throwing just two interceptions.

In receiving Victor Oatis is the leader with 23 catches for 461 yards and five touchdowns. Jimmy Blackwell also has 23 catches, good for 324 yards and Jerry Wheeler has 20 receptions for 297 yards. Ellis is the leader in number of receptions with 24 for 218 yards.

Senior punter Leo Clement added his name to the Demon record books with a 78-yard punt, breaking the old record of 75 set by Barry Rubin in 1977. Clement now has raised his punting average to 40.5 yards per kick.

Return man Roy Fontenot is still the leader in punt and kickoff returns, averaging 12.1 yards on punt returns and 22.4 yards per kickoff return. Behind Ellis in scoring is placekicker Dale Quickel with 37 points.

End David Grappe is the tackle leader with 56 stops, 16 behind the line of scrimmage. Gary Reasons, the All-American linebacker, is second on the team in tackles and Michael Richardson is third in tackles and now has five pass interceptions from his safety position to lead the team in that category.

Leroy Ellis runs for a gain.

Several players improved their offensive statistics for Northwestern as the Demons defeated Nicholls State 38-6.

Tailback LeRoy Ellis continues to lead the ground attack as he now has gained 453 yards on 142 carries. Tony Green had his best night of the season last week and now has 117 yards on 29 carries. Both Ellis and Green rushed for a score in the win.

Ellis continues as the top Demon scorer as he had 60 points in nine games, rushing eight times for touchdowns and catching two scoring passes.

Wide receiver Victor Oatis established himself as the top receiver with his record setting performance. Oatis totaled 198 yards on eight catches and had scoring receptions of 42 and 73 yards.

Oatis now has 32 catches for 673 yards and seven touchdowns. Oatis is averaging over 21 yards per catch and needs just one more scoring reception to tie the school record in that category. Oatis is already the all-time receiving yardage leader.

Quarterback Bobby Hebert got his second start of the season against Nicholls State and completed 10 of 15 passes for 195 yards and two scores. Hebert now has 531 yards passing in six games.

Junior Stan Powell, playing only in the second half, also had success passing the ball, gaining 105 yards on six of eight passing. Powell now for the season has completed 88 of 162 passes for 1163 yards and eight touchdowns.

While Ellis still leads the team in scoring, the race for second place tightened up. Dale Quickel hit his only field goal attempt and all five PATs to raise his scoring total to 45, just one point ahead of Oatis who now has 44 points.

Roy Fontenot continues to lead the team in punt returns with a 10.6 average on 21 returns, and in kickoff returns with an average of 18.7 yards on 16 returns. Punter Leo Clement is now averaging an even 40 yards on punts after nine games.

Senior Quarterback Bobby Hebert threw three touchdown passes and wide receiver Victor Oatis continued to add his name to the record books as Northwestern State defeated Southeastern Louisiana.

After scoring two first half touchdowns for a 17-3 lead at halftime, the Demon defense controlled the third period as the Demons increased the advantage to 31-3 with 12 minutes to go in the game.

Hebert threw 11 yards to tightend Jimmy Blackwell for the score while the big play in the drive was a 41-yard pass from Hebert to tailback LeRoy Ellis.

Oatis, who had 198 yards receiving last week, tied the school record for career touchdowns with 17, and broke his own single season receiving mark of 687 yards that was set last season. For the night Oatis had four catches for 77 yards and is just one short of the season record for receptions.

The win was the second straight for the Demons, who improved their record to 7-3 on the season, while Southeastern lost for the fourth straight week and falls to 4-6 for the season. It was also the fifth straight win at home for the Demons this season and the sixth straight since last season.

The second half rally came up just one point short for Northwestern State in the 28-27 loss at Northeast Louisiana, but Head Coach A. L. Williams probably said it best after the contest when he remarked, "I have never been so proud of a football team as I am right now."

Bobby Hebert passed for 341 yards in the game, and wide receiver Jerry Wheeler, who ended the night with 216 yards in receiving on 13 catches and scored twice.

Even though Hebert threw three interceptions in the first half, Williams said his senior quarterback wasn't throwing badly. "A couple of those interceptions would have been completions had Bobby not lofted the ball as much," said Williams.

The Demons ended the season with a 7-4 record, and Demon fans can only think what might have been if Hebert had been healthy all season. In his final three games when he was completely healthy, Hebert completed 49 of 80 passes for 785 yards and eight touchdowns with four interceptions.

While the Northeast game ended the career for Williams and 13 Demon seniors, there will be plenty of talent returning next fall. Only seven of the 22 starters in the final game will be missing.

Williams, in his eight years as the Demon head coach, ended with a 39-45 overall record, leading the Demons to winning seasons in two of the past three years.

The 1982 NSU Cheerleaders

The Northwestern State University Cheerleaders prepared for the 1982 season by participating in the Universal Cheerleading Camp held at Memphis State University August 9-13, 1982. The camp consisted of over 75 squads and 900 collegiate cheerleaders from across the country coming together to improve their skills and show their school spirit. The week provided the squad members with an opportunity to increase skill levels and also helped them to become one of the most spirited cheerleading squads in NSU history. During the week, the NSU squad participated in skill evaluations scoring seven out of seven superior ratings

NSU BASEBALL

Northwestern State's baseball team ended the season with an 18-26 record and while it wasn't what Coach Herbie Smith had hoped for, there were some bright spots at the end of the season. The Demons were 7-5 in the Trans America Conference Western Division and tied for first place with Hardin-Simmons and Northeast Louisiana. Hardin-Simmons won the conference title and the Demons defeated the Cowboys in three of four games against each other. "We played well at the end of the season and I just wish we would have been in the tournament," said Smith after his team missed the league meet because of a coin flip. "I think Hardin-Simmons showed that anything can happen in the tournament if you get the chance, we just didn't get that chance."

Leading the way for the Demons this season were five seniors and Smith and his staff will miss them all. They include pitchers Eric

Barkley and Mike Davern, second baseman Doug Guelde, shortstop Chris Marshall and third baseman Gerry Larsen. Davern was a big reason the Demons posted the 7-5 league mark and he was 3-5 on the season with one save also. Marshall came on in the second half of the season and ended the year hitting .278. Larsen played his usual solid defense this season at third base and set a single season record with 12 sacrifice bunts during the course of the year. Barkley earned a 5-5 record on the mound this season with a 2.36 earned run average. Guelde was a four-year starter at second base for the Demons and led the team this past season with a .347 batting average. Guelde also led the team in hits with 41 and in runs batted in with 20. Both Eric Barkley and Doug Guelde were named to the honorable mention list on the Trans America Athletic Conference all-conference baseball team.

NSU SOFTBALL

Northwestern State's women's softball team ended its season with a fourth place finish in the AIAW Southwest regional tournament. The Lady Demons ended the season with a 17-10 overall record. In the SWAIAW regional, Northwestern opened with an 8-0 win over Texas Wesleyan. After that came a 2-1 loss to eventual champion Central State of Oklahoma, and a 5-3 loss to Angelo State, a team that lost in the championship finals. Head Coach James Smith, who guided the Lady Demons to their second straight winning season, couldn't help but think what might have been with a couple more runs. "We just waited too long to get started in the final game," noted Smith, who saw his team held hitless for five innings while falling behind 5-0. "In the last two innings we started to come around, but it was too late." In the first loss to Central State, the Lady Demons were hurt by their own mistakes. "We were right in that game but we made three mental mistakes and that cost us the game," pointed out Smith. "Those little things mean a lot in a one-run game."

Centerfielder Janet Guerrini ended the season as the Lady Demon top hitter with a .326 average. Guerrini also committed just two errors while playing in all 27 games in centerfield. Cindy Wigley was second on the team with a .300 average, followed by second baseman, Sherri Broocks with a .284 average. Karen Briggs, one of only two seniors on the team, compiled a 9-4 record with a 1.89 earned run average. Sydney Forrester was 8-6 with one save and led the team with a 1.13 earned run average. Along with Briggs, third-baseman Helen LeFevre was the only senior on the 1982 Lady Demon Squad.

"There may be some bigger, but there aren't any that are nicer."

That just about sums up what visitors say after visiting Northwestern State's Harry "Rags" Turpin Stadium and the adjoining fieldhouse that sits just beyond the south end zone of the playing field. The 16,000-seat stadium was first used in 1975 as the replacement for Demon Stadium and bears the name of one of the state's most illustrious sports figures. Coach Turpin, who died in 1974 following a lengthy illness, served for 30 years on the Northwestern staff before retiring in 1956. Turpin served as an assistant Coach at NSU for eight years before taking over as head coach in 1934. He had the longest tenure of any head coach in the history of the university and led his 1939 team to a perfect 11-0 season, one of the only two unbeaten seasons in school history.

The two-deck west side of the stadium features a glassed-in area between decks which is reserved for visiting dignitaries and members of the NSU Demon Booster Club. The side also features almost 5,000 comfortable chair-back seats and an ultramodern multi-level press box atop the second deck. The east side of the stadium is reserved for the student body and other group visitors, and between the sides is the only outdoor Astro turf field used by a collegiate team in the state.

Big Gold Tournament

Northsestern State's men's tennis team continued its impressive showing when the Demons captured first place in the Big Gold Tennis Tournament at Southern Mississippi University. The Demons won the event, the most prestigious college tournament in the South, with a total of 79 points, winning three singles titles and one doubles championship over twenty-one other teams. Nelson Aerts won the No. 1 singles title and Jorge Salkeld won the No. 3 singles title. The other singles championship for the Demons was Donny Loro at No. 5. In No. 1 doubles Aerts and Salkeld won their first match and the No. 3 doubles team of Lytt Allen and Molina lost in the second round.

Southern Arkansas Tournament

In the Southern Arkansas Tournament NSU won its second tournament within two weeks. "We have played better tennis," admitted Emmons. But it was our depth that paid off." Alfredo Trullenque won the No. 4 singles title by winning four straight matches. At No. 5 singles Donny Loro improved his record by claiming the championship and Hugo Molina won at No. 6 singles. In doubles the team of Trullenque and Love placed second and Molina and Lytt Allen teamed to take the No. 3 doubles. No. 1 player Nelson Aerts lost in the semi-finals to the eventual champion but bounced back to claim third place in the bracket. Allen played in the No. 2 singles placing fourth. At No. 3 singles Jorge Salkeld reached the finals but lost to a close decision.

TAAC

Jorge Salkeld and Nelson Aerts were named to the Trans America Athletic Conference all-conference tennis team. "I think both players are very deserving of the honor," said NSU tennis coach Jonnie Emmonds. Salkeld had a 26-4 record in the Spring and won the No. 3 singles title at the TAAC tournament. Aerts played the No. 1 singles position for Northwestern this season and ended with a record of 24-7 and placed second in the No. 1 singles at the conference tournament.

National Independent Tennis Tournament

For several years, the idea of a National Independent Tennis Tournament has been pushed around among several colleges. Finally, with the help of Northeast State University and sponsors from the Monroe area, the NITT became a reality. The NITT was designed to give some of the smaller conferences and smallname schools a chance for some national recognition. With the aide of a selection committee composed of several coaches, the NITT purpose was to choose the next best 16 teams in the country. NSU's team was picked as one of these 16 teams. After four hard days of tennis, the 13 teams participating were ranked in their respective positions leaving Tulsa University the winner followed by Cal-State in second. Northwestern finished in 9th place ahead of the hosting team Northeast who finished 13th. Before NSU left the tournament, the team was involved with final examinations leaving them little practice time. This lack of preparation tended to show up heavily during their first match against the University of Nevada at Las Vegas as they lost by a score of 6-3. In the second round of consolation NSU played Virginia Tech, the Metro Seven Conference Champions. With a strong showing in singles, NSU took five of the six singles which automatically won the match for them. The final outcome was 5-4 in favor of NSU. NSU next played the University of San Francisco for the #9 and #10 positions. After singles play, the 2 teams were all even at 3 matches a piece. But with a big effort from doubles, NSU pulled out the match by winning all three doubles, thus winning 6-3. This was probably NSU's toughest match of the season, which also ended as being their biggest win. This win left NSU in 9th place out of 13 of the toughest teams in the nation. This tournament definitely proved that the NSU tennis program is capable of playing with, and beating some of the big name teams in the nation.

NSU TRACK

For the second straight year NSU track and field team placed in the nation's top 20. At the NCAA National meet in Provo, Utah, the team scored 24 team points and placed in four events. This year the Demons claimed a second place in the 400 meter relay, fifth in the shot put and eleventh place in both the javelin and decathlon. The Demon Relay Team set a school and Louisiana Collegiate record by running a 39.03 in both the trials and finals. For the second straight year, Mark Duper and Mario Johnson earned All-American honors as members of the relay team. Edgar Washington and Ray Brown also earned the honor. Placing fifth in the shot put, John Campbell also earned the All-American status.

CROSS COUNTRY

Under new head, Coach Leon Johnson, Northwestern State cross country team opened the 1982 season at Southeastern. The Cross country team placed third in the five team meet. The Demons placed three runners in the top 10, led by the fourth place finish of sophomore Andy Nelson. Nelson covered the five miles in a time of 27.21. Michael Carver placed sixth for Northwestern in a time of 28.21. Brian Barrios came across in eighth with a time of 28.30 and Chris Maggio was 18th with a time of 31.05.

In the McNeese State Invitational, Northwestern State's cross country team improved in individual times, but the team result was fifth place. The top finisher over the five mile course for the Demons was Brian Barrios, who placed 17th with a time of 26.35. Michael Carver was 25th in a time of 27.41. Chris Maggio ran 30.42, Willie Edwards 35.11, Willie Garcia 35.20 and Jerry Van Hoosen turned in a time of 35.30.

The Demons fell to Centenary 18-41 as the Gents claimed the top three places. Sophomore Andy Nelson was the top runner for the Demons with a time of 35.21, in the race that covered 10,000-kilometers. Others running for Northwestern included Mike Carver in sixth with a time of 37.21, Chris Maggio in eight with a 39.45 time, Willie Garcia in 11th with a 45.14 and Jerry Van Hoosen in 12th with the time of 46.53.

The Demons participated in the Louisiana State University Invitational and finished 14th in a field of 15 teams. Nelson finished the five mile course with a 27.53 time for 47th place among more than 130 runners.

The Demons gathered a total of 112 team points in the 10,000 kilometer TransAmerica Athletic Conference Cross Country Championships. Northwestern State placed fourth in the meet after claiming second in each of the past three years. Named to the top ten was Demon runner Andy Nelson. Nelson placed seventh with a time of 34.12.

NSU RODEO TEAM

Steve Duhon and Porter Craig finished in the average at the Louisiana Rodeo Cowboys Association Championship Finals at Hirsch Coliseum in Shreveport. Duhon placed third in the steer wrestling and finished the 1982 LRCA season 15th in steer wrestling. Craig scored 201 points in three successful rides to place fourth in the bareback bronc riding average and finished ninth after the championship performances. Shawn Frey scored 67 points in the first round of saddle bronc riding to split first and second-place money. He finished the LRCA season in saddlebronc riding in fourth place. Bubba Avant was awarded 72 points for second place in the second go-round of saddle bronc riding to improve his season standing to eighth place. Brian Thomas won fourth place in the first go-round of calf roping and finished the season in 11th place. Thomas also placed fourth in the first and second rounds of steer wrestling and ended the year 10th in the event. Duncan Crain placed 11th in saddle bronc riding and Jeb Barney placed 14th in calf roping in the LRCA's standings for 1982.

The NSU Intercollegiate Rodeo team opened its 1982-83 season in the Southern Region of the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association. The team placed second in the average in saddle bronc and bull riding and finished third overall in team roping at Uvalde, Texas. Mike Yancey won second place in the bull riding average with a combined score of 137 points on two bulls. Shawn Frey was second in the saddle bronc riding average with 127 points. Frey also teamed with Brian Thomas to place third in the team roping average with a combined time of 33.85 seconds. In bareback bronc riding, Porter Craig tied for fifth place in the average with 129 points. Duncan Crain made the finals in saddle bronc riding after tying for 10th place in the long go-round with 53 points. In steer wrestling, Jeff Campbell threw his long go-round steer in 6.56 seconds to place eighth, but he received no time in the finals.

At the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association's Southern Region contest in Corsicana, Texas, Brian Thomas, Telena Hines, and Porter Craig were second-place winners for the NSU Rodeo Team. Thomas won second place in steer wrestling with a time of 7.4 seconds, and Miss Hines was second in barrel racing with a run of 15.33 seconds. Craig was runner-up in bareback riding with a score of 74 points in the one go-round rodeo. In team roping, Thomas and Rick McGlothlin were fourth with an 8.6 second performance. Teammates Jeff Campbell and Shawn Matheson roped their steer in 9.2 seconds for fifth place. Campbell also finished seventh in steer wrestling with a time of 10.6 seconds, and in women's breakaway roping, Stephanie LaFleur placed 10th with a 4.49 second effort.

TEAM RESULTS

SPRING 1982

The Northwestern State golf team ended its season with a fifth place finish in the Trans America Conference Tournament. That finish was an improvement over the seventh place finish by the Demons a year ago. "The team played as consistent as it had all Spring," said Demon graduate assistant Coach David Thompson. Low man in the tournament for the Demons was Chris Roper who earned All-Conference honors by placing ninth in the individual race and finished with a score of 225. Other scores for Northwestern in the final tournament were David Goldstein at 231, Joey Brown at 232, Paul Day at 233, and Charlie Ingalls at 255.

For the season, Roper had the lowest average per round with a 76.7 average. Day averaged 77 strokes, Goldstein 77.5, Brown 79, and Ingalls, 84.5. The first round score of 297 at the conference meet was the low for the season and the 921 tournament total was also a season's best for the Northwestern squad.

NSU RIFLE TEAM

While being a little bit old and a little bit new, the Northwestern State rifle team in 1982 has continued to be one thing — very good. For the first time, the Northwestern State rifle team, long a competitive sport at NSU, is considered as an NCAA sport. "Being an NCAA team will help us gain recognition as a team and for the individual shooters," commented Lomax. "Many schools have joined the NCAA with their rifle teams and it can only help the recognition you can receive." While being an NCAA sport is a big change for the squad, it has not changed the squad's winning ways of previous years as the Demon shooters have taken victories in most of their matches this fall. The Northwestern team also competed this fall in the Sam Houston Rodeo Invitational. With 3,800 points, the Demon rifle team placed sixth out of eleven teams. Coaching the rifle team is Captain Kent Lomax and assistant Coach Sergeant Roland Belanger, both of the Northwestern ROTC department.

INTRAMURALS

An extracurricular, comprehensive program of Intramural activities is a vital aspect of the total program of higher education. The NSU Intramural Program offers recreational activities for all students, faculty, and staff, and involves a wide variety of activities. The main objective of intramurals is not competition, but the enjoyment of participation.

The Intramural Program is not operated on the basis of individual administrative decisions, but is governed with the advice and counsel of the participants.

Offering structured play in activities ranging from flag football to horseshoes and canoe races, the Intramural Program provides an opportunity for free play in basketball, table tennis and racquetball. An equipment check-out program is also available through the Intramural Office.

75 YEARS OF POTPOURRI

EDITED BY ED DUPUIS

LOOSE LEAVES FROM AN OLD DIARY

Reprinted From 1912 Potpourri

October 3rd, 1895 — Our rooms were assigned today, and Josie and I have been busy moving in. We room in Cell No. 4, north dormitory, in the Convent Building. The dormitory is in what would be the attic of an ordinary house under the roof as it slopes down to the eaves. The Convent is so large that there is room in this loft-space for an aisle, with a row of six tiny rooms or cells on each side. They are about ten feet square and each is furnished with a double bed, two chairs, and a long shelf. There is a small unfinished space back of every cell, containing a washstand, a place for trunks, and some nails for hangers. It doesn't seem very "homey" up here, but the "old girls" say it is lots better than the big eight-girl rooms on the second floor. The cells are really little pens, as the walls are only about eight feet high, with the great space open above them all.

May 7th — Some of us girls were talking in Mary's room tonight while the others were down at society. Edith began to tell about the Normal nun who roams about at night, and Lizzie got hysterical.

"Pshaw!" said Edith, "she won't hurt anybody. Lots of girls have seen her — generally on Saturday night. I got a glimpse of her black habit near Mr. Boyd's office when I went down to Mrs. Donoho for tooth-ache medicine the other night. She looks awful sad and just moans and moans."

Edith's tone was sepulchral. The window rattled just as she uttered the last word and we all jumped. Lizzie covered down by Mary and covered up her head.

"She had a lover over in France," continued Edith, "and he was guillotined before her very eyes. She carries his head about with her trying to find the body, which was cast into the Danube."

"Miss Laura ought to hear that, Edie. She'd give you such a fine mark in Geography that —"

"Never mind; it may have been the Rhine in southern France. Anyway, when she finds it —"

The blind opened slowly, and there stood a nun moaning piteously. She had a round object in her hands and as she raised it I caught a fleeting glimpse of a red sleeve under her habit. "Mon ami! Mon ami!" She sobbed. We gazed a moment, and all ran screaming out of the room. Lizzie's eyes bulged out as if on stalks. As she turned she gave a blood-curdling whoop that would have put a

Comanche brave to shame. Her foot caught in her skirt and she fell in a terrified heap. There was a stir on the stairs. "Mrs. Donoho, girls — run!" came a warning voice. Everybody got away but Lizzie, and she had to crawl to cover under Mary's bed. The space is small and Lizzie is not — she stuck and almost fainted. Mrs. Donoho came in, found no one, and started out, when Lizzie coughed chokingly.

"Oh, I'm dying! Please, Mrs. Donoho, help me out! I'm smothering! My hair is caught on this spring, and I'm wedged in here so tight I can't move. I'm nearly dead."

After considerable effort, Lizzie came out and so did the whole story. None of us will go to society next Saturday — we are under arrest. It's hard luck for all, but worst for the nun, as she has a special engagement with the one who, like the French lover, has completely lost his head.

MY CHEWING GUM STORY

"Since we didn't have school Saturday afternoon, the girls at my table in the dining hall, decided to go to town. We were going to leave at two o'clock. We rushed to our dormitory to get ready to go. About five minutes later I heard a knock at my door. Two sisters who lived across the hall from me, rushed in and said that they couldn't go to town for their money was gone.

I offered to share the money I had, but they told me Miss Varnado, our Dean, had called a meeting of the girls in our dormitory. When Miss Dean had finished, a maid, who was taking in everything Miss Dean was saying, asked if she could say something. Miss Dean gave her permission, and this is what she said:

"Miss Dean and girls, I have been working at this college for nigh on 29 years, and I ain't never tuk nothing that didn't belong to me." Then she thought for a minute. "Sometimes I goes into the girls rooms to clean up. I seez little pieces of chewing gum sticking to the cold cream jars. I takes it; I chew it; but I always puts it Back!"

STUDENTS AT STATE NORMAL HAVE OLD TRADITION

The thrills of tradition will never die. From savagery up through all the stages of civilization, tribes have passed on through the generations tradition and folk-lore that will continue to live so long as the world stands. No matter how ignorant or how well educated a people may be there still lingers the thrill of the romance as it is related around the campfire or the hearth.

But the students of Louisiana State Normal College at Natchitoches have a tradition all their own as old as the college itself. Perhaps it may be said to be older than the college, for it really had its origin nearly a half century ago when in place of the stately and massive buildings that dot the beautiful campus of the college now, there stood an old plantation home of the pre-war type with four large columns at the front, which had been remodeled into a convent, and when instead of the old Pine Hills that border the campus on either side echoing back the happy voices of over a thousand of Louisiana's girls, there was heard only the low murmuring sound of the black-garbed nuns as they went up and down the old river drive saying their beads.

Every coed at the Normal knows the story only too well; she is told the story at a time in her stay at the college when it becomes deeply rooted never to be erased from her memory. Usually during her first week at the college when her little heart is nearly breaking from the pangs of homesickness, she is awakened in the dead hours of the night by a light weird tap, tap on her door and almost instantly a figure clothed in white enters and announces these blood curdling words that have sent the face white and the heart pounding of all Normal Coeds. "I am the ghost of East Hall."

The story goes that a beautiful girl, daughter of one of Louisiana's proudest families, fell deeply in love with a young man from the east who had been sent to Louisiana to investigate the lumber industry of the state for his father who had invested some capital. The two young people became engaged; but the father of the young man, thinking his son was too young and unsettled, sent him abroad to forget his love affair in the South.

Several letters were exchanged secretly, and finally the young man became frantic and slipped aboard a steamer at Paris as a stowaway. The boat was wrecked on its voyage to America, but the young man was miraculously cast with ten others of the crew upon an island. Days, weeks and months passed before the little band of unfortunate were able to flag a steamer.

All this time the boy's sweetheart was waiting impatiently for word from him. Finally, she gave up in despair, and thinking that he had been untrue to her, took the veil of the Catholic nun, and was sent to the convent at old Natchitoches.

In the meantime her lover returned and hastened to her home in Louisiana only to find her pledged to live life unwedded.

Determined to get a glimpse of her once more, he journeyed to Natchitoches and met her on the little road that extends from the old convent site to the river. He pledged his vows anew, at the same time knowing that they were in vain.

The strain was too much for the nun. Slipping quietly from her associates, she crept to the attic of the old building and took her life. As she removed the dagger from her heart, the gush of blood that followed stained her hand, which as she swooned, left the bloody imprint of her fingers on the wall of East Hall.

So lives the tradition of the Louisiana State Normal College. And unsuspecting freshmen of the future will not miss the thrill of the visit of the Ghost of East Hall.

POTPOURRI BANQUET

SEPTEMBER 24, 1982

Elmira Montgomery of Kaplan, La., editor of the 1915 volume of the POTPOURRI, was to be the oldest former editor at the homecoming banquet. But we learned by phone the day of the event that she had been taken to the hospital.

The oldest POTPOURRI editor attending the banquet was Ruth Vernon Pierce of Kentwood, La., who headed the staff of the 1923 edition.

Cora Carr and her staff began work on the school's first yearbook in the Fall, 1908. The homecoming banquet in the Fall, 1982 celebrated 75 years of publishing the "annual," culminating with the 1983 volume then under preparation.

Northwestern was established by the state legislature in 1884 as a normal school, to train students to be public school teachers. Before that, it had been a convent utilizing the old Bullard plantation mansion with its four tall, massive white columns. The columns quickly became a thematic symbol for the yearbook editors. Early in this century one of the columns was destroyed. The other three remain today and help the editors to carry on the institution's traditions.

In the intervening years the school's names, as designated by the legislature, have been Louisiana State Normal School and Northwestern State College.

Through the years, the POTPOURRI was edited by campus leaders who went on to successful careers in fields such as education, law and business. One editor later served as a state legislator, lieutenant governor, and state superintendent of education.

The intensive search for the former editors consumed the summer months and continued until the day of the banquet. Two nights before, we learned that one of the editors whom we had been told "reliably" was deceased, was in fact alive and well in Denver!

But we had confirmed the whereabouts of 66 (including the deceased) of the 70 editors.

In our efforts to locate the editors, we used a "letter to the editor" to all the state's daily newspapers, explaining briefly our plans and listing those former editors we had been unable to locate. Most, if not all, of the newspapers must have published the letter, because we had a tremendous response and located many of the editors as a result.

The celebration banquet was attended by about 130 persons, including 31 of the yearbook editors and many of their friends.

During the evening's program the former editors and guests browsed delightedly through all the 71 volumes of the POTPOURRI, beginning with the 1909 edition.

In our research, we learned that the yearbook was not published in 1918 and 1944 because of the two world wars. Also, it was not published in 1920, and we assume there was difficulty in reviving the "annual."

The anniversary celebration of the POTPOURRI was so unique and successful that it was featured in the winter edition of the College Press Review, a publication of the National Council of College Publications Advisors.

Ezra Adams, professor of journalism and the NSU yearbook adviser, wrote the article which appeared in the "Media Milestones" section of the Nationally circulated publication. The article appears on pages 232 and 233 of this edition of the POTPOURRI.

FORMER EDITORS RECALL THEIR YEARS AS EDITOR

Yearbook Editor ... a job, an experience, memories of a lifetime.

It would seem to me that I edited ten yearbooks, or at least that I was associated with Northwestern Publications for a long, long time. My memories of work on publishing yearbooks might best be related in a number of excerpts from memories of my good life at Northwestern from 1955 to 1958, 1960 to 1961.

In those days copy was strictly edited, or so it seemed, and one of my most memorable characters is Doc Marx, yearbook sponsor (advisor) during my time. The first words of advice I seem to remember were, "Be sure not to do a Gerald Tilleaux ... he filled space (quite innocently, I'm sure), with a full-page spread of Mamie Van Doren ... much to the dismay of President Kyser, Doc Marx, and, as it was told, all other true Demons, (this I rather doubt).

In those days things were cheap ... the Triangle Restaurant served the best ham sandwiches around, and a yearbook editor's salary of some $50.00 a month could treat two, on a regular basis, to curb service at the Triangle ... a sandwich, a stuffed potato and a drink ... and all in the comfort of a good roommate's car.

Yes, POTPOURRI editing brings back the good times — and good associations — of my college years and I look forward to seeing what is being done now.

No one can describe the experience without having lived through it, i.e., being Editor of the Potpourri, especially the first time you sit down behind the Editor's desk. My recollection is that it was more frightening than exciting. I was plain scared.

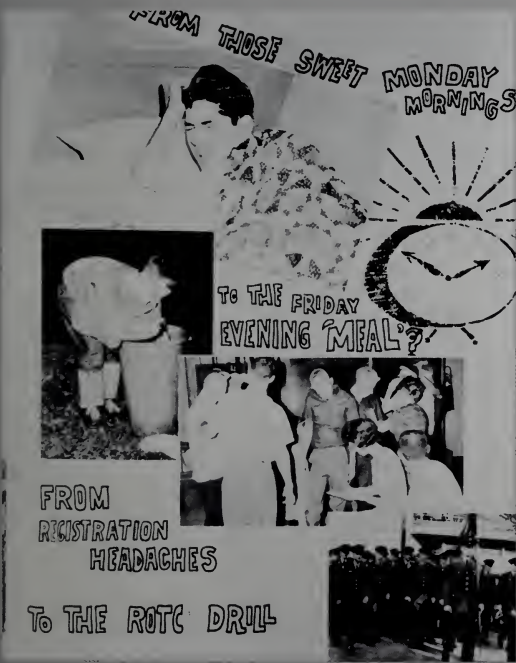

Many frustrations are involved in reaching decisions as to copy, layout, and personnel, but at the outset we accepted the higher of two bids for the photographic work. Curtis Guillet of Guillet Studios, was given the job over the slightly lower bid of the inexperienced Joe Uhrbach. It nearly got us all, including the President of the College, into Court.

That episode failed to ingratiate us in the eyes of the faculty, but we plowed on, full steam ahead. The steam really erupted when one of our Calendar Girls on the Snapshot

Section, Marilyn Barnette, showed her folks our picture of her as a June Bride leaning over to fix her garter. It was already locked in the galleys and ready to roll. The steam and the roll got together, and the Shreveport Engraving Company Staff Artist solved the crisis by putting more cloth on her dress with an airbrush.

Several years, like thirty-one, have passed since we did our book. As I look back, only one change would I make. Under every photograph, no matter how fuzzy, mediocre, or brilliant, I would put the first name, last name, nickname, and middle initial of every soul in that picture, just for the record and to help flagging memories.

The Students Speak ...

DEADLINES!

"Anyone who has edited a yearbook probably still cringes at the word 'deadline.' I must say, however, that the days just before deadlines were some of my favorites. Those were the days when I really saw the staff pull together, and those were the days when I could sit back and murmur trite expressions about the spirit of cooperation. We would start working at about 1:00 pm, and though each time we were sure that we hadn't waited until the last minute to attend to details, the unexpected would arise, and at 4:00 am we would still be working diligently. During those hours, I would see each staff member go through the stages of seriousness, panic, relief, and delirium. The final one was the most fun because it came when everything was over. We would feel sorry for ourselves for being the most hard-working, unappreciated group on campus, and then we would laugh and admit that we wouldn't give it up for the world. You know, to this day I still believe it — I've never had so much fun being so miserable."

NSU

1979 Potpourri of opinions

In an attempt to hear the opinions of the students of Northwestern, the Potpourri Staff made a random inquiry about their views on these controversial issues:

Bob Carnes — "I don't think they are effective at this moment because I don't hear enough from them."

Do you feel that the SGA is effective in representing the NSU student body?

Rima Sellers — "It gives the President a chance to see what the students do and don't like. I think it's good that the students have a voice."

EDITOR'S NOTE

It should be noted that this section could in no way cover all of the many different POTPOURRI's which were published throughout the years. What has been attempted, however, is to present representative material from the various styles of NSU yearbooks. It is hoped that while looking through this section, an interest in past POTPOURRI's will be sparked, warranting a look back through some of the most interesting books in the history of Northwestern State University — the POTPOURRI.

NIGHTLIFE AT NSU

For many years Northwestern students spent their night life in a setting that was less than desirable. This past year brought a whole new light to NSU night life. Johnny Antoon opened the Student Body and for the first time in years going out was actually nice. Northwestern students and their guests were welcome with the stipulation that a student was responsible for the behavior of his own guest. Unlike other places the Student Body required proper attire. No old faded jeans or tee-shirts and no caps were allowed. Different? Definitely! Students had fun and in a very relaxed atmosphere.

Jill Bordonon and Tim Moffett enjoy a night at the Student Body.

Pool tables hold additional interest for students.

Bubba Solleau dee-jeys while Steve Allen and Skippy Waters dance with their favorite partner.

HOUSEMOTHERS AT NSU

One of the most important, but less glamorous jobs at Northwestern was that of Housemother or House director. It was a twenty four hour job and one that was never ending. Lillie Soileau, Housemother in Varnado revealed some of her thoughts about the job. "I love it," she said. "I get tired sometimes but there is never a dull moment." She said it wasn't a hard job, just one that wore her down. She faced, as did ever other house director on campus, a great variety of problems. Everything from false fire alarms to students with personal problems occupied their days. Many times these very valuable people went unnoticed. It was certainly not because they didn't deserve recognition. They did a fantastic job and were a valuable asset to NSU.

NURSING SCHOOL AWAITING COMPLETION OF NEW FACILITY

Construction on the Nursing Education Center on Line Avenue in Shreveport continues at a steady pace.

The College of Nursing at Northwestern State University was anxiously awaiting the completion of the new Nursing Education Center, located one block from the Warrington Campus in Shreveport. The 6.4 million dollar structure will provide the College of Nursing with the convenience of relocating the 3 degree programs at one site. With a completion date in 1985, the 88,000 square foot structure will consist of a new building with 70,000 square feet of space, and the renovated Line Avenue School building providing 18,000 square feet of space. The Line Avenue School was entered in the National Register of Historic Places in June, 1981. The two buildings will be joined by an enclosed walkway on the second floor level. The Center is designed to make available a wide variety of teaching-learning areas.

The iron framework of a wing of the new Nursing Education Center takes shape.

NSU SCHOOL OF NURSING

The Baccalaureate Program in Nursing was established at NSU in 1949. The degree was earned by completing the freshman and sophomore years of study at the Natchitoches campus and the junior and senior years at Warrington campus in Shreveport. The clinical atmosphere of study at Warrington provided students with the opportunity to experience classroom situations as well as dealing with patients.

In 1972, the associate degree program in Nursing was begun at NSU. The establishment of the program was brought about by the increasing demand for qualified and well-trained registered nurse practitioners.

The Northwestern State University Nursing facility at Warrington place in Shreveport is presently the main teaching facility for the College of Nursing.

Gethyn Clayton and Kerry Hopes spend time studying in their dorm room at Warrington Place.

ADOS students leave for home after a hard day of classes.

Caldwell Hall when she housed State Normal School students.

Firefighters worked long and hard to control the blaze.

CALDWELL HALL DESTROYED IN LATE NIGHT BLAZE

On Monday night, October 21, Northwestern students stood in awe and disbelief as they watched a part of Northwestern's history go up in flames. Caldwell Hall, named after Beverly C. Caldwell, housed many offices and a wealth of information and educational materials. Vice President Southerland called the fire "A tremendous loss, not only because of the records, files, equipment, classroom and office space that were lost, but also because of the enormous historic value of the building." It was a sad day for NSU. The fire, undetermined in cause, took a great deal from our past. Students stood, staring at the blaze, yet even as they stood and watched they remembered the glory with which Caldwell stood.

THE MARCH IS ON

Time and life march on and one day both
Will end and eternity will take over.
But as for now life rolls on
And the clock still goes tick tock
As it did in grade school reminding
Us of how immature we are.
But do we listen?
Or are we as we must think we are?
Ever wise — Ever learned,
Thinking we have just arrived at some enlightened state,
And maybe rightly so — but what about last week?
When we were sure we had made it.
Was that unreal? Are moments past less real?
When the feelings are gone surely truth remains.
Truth is that one element of both
Time and eternity; life and after.
Our search for truth causes us to be dogmatic
And stubborn in our stand that we are right.
But in our "rightness" with our brother under our feet
And our sword held high in the air — victoriously.
— Who's right? —
In times past the one who was right wasn't.
Always the victor.
But in eternity things shift.
Since truth lives on, promises made are not forgotten.
Our search for that truth today that will carry us
Over to that certain truth of tomorrow.
It seems that pro's and con's can always be found.
And so what?
One will be wrong and the other right.
Or maybe not.
There are many roads that lead to truth.
In proving our love and devotion
To that high calling of truth.
Doesn't it seem odd that we would deny our brothers
The same rights that we demand?
Because to him you are them.

So in our search for the truth
That will carry us on to eternity
Let us not be so cold that we miss
The warm touch of love.
When your doctrine doesn't fit with mine let Us both recognize that proof for both can be found
And interpreted to support each stand but
In the end we are not the one calling the shots
So all we can do is trust and obey.
Small words for a large calling.
Our love for the Father must go beyond
Each other and our own unswerving dogmatic convictions,
And must meet in Him. That proves our love.
The greatest of these.
The march is on and we are a part.
Whether or not we are willing to be a part.
Doesn't really matter until you begin to know
The One who is all and in all.
As the march goes on
Fall in line and take your place. Not mine.
Seek to march straight and truth will guide your way.
To say that love will find a way seems like
A pie in the sky mentality on reality.
But look at it this way —

If love doesn't find a way then what will?
We've tried just about everything else.
Must we go all the way to the dead end when there's Room to turn around here?
Conformity is not a sin if you're conforming to the truth.
The truth that will carry you on.
And there is one truth.
And our march is to find it again.
And to hold on to it.
This time.

EDITOR'S COMMENTS

Each year at Northwestern an important event takes place: the production of the POTPOURRI. In the offices on the second floor of Keyser Hall, students work frantically to get the job done. This year was no exception.

Long before the actual work begins, plans are laid out for the book and important decisions concerning size, coverage, and other such matters must be made. That was my job. I think I planned this book quite well. However, we all know that sometimes even the best made plans must be changed. Because of a smaller budget than anticipated, my plans had to change. Cuts were made in the number of pages to be included in this edition and as a result, everyone's coverage had to be reduced. That's one of the toughest decisions I've had to make, but it had to be done. You see, at Northwestern (at least as long as I've been here) people have come to expect certain things out of the yearbook, and when changes are made, they aren't taken very well. Be that as it may, it had to be done. I must apologize to all of you who feel as though you have been treated unfairly, but especially to the students and faculty of our satellite campuses at Fort Polk, England Air Force Base, and Shreveport.

Planning the yearbook was the easy part. Executing the plans proved to be quite challenging. I have become quite annoyed with photographers since I began this edition of the yearbook because I have had four different head photographers who have "lost" innumerable rolls of film. Problems with use of the darkroom in Kyser and the fact that the photographers never seemed to meet their deadlines only tended to increase my anger.

The budget. I cringe at the sound of those two words. The fee increase was supposed to give us a larger budget so that we could continue with the same number of pages as last year. However, none of us expected the $10,000 rise in the cost for publication of the book. Along with increases in the cost of everything else, we were forced to reduce the size of the book to save money. A decrease in enrollment sure didn't help our situation either.

I do want to thank all of the students who made our fee increase in the spring of 1982 possible. Without it, you might be reading a magazine instead.

I also want to thank all of those who were a part of our special Anniversary Homecoming Banquet. It is an event that I will long remember. I hope all of our former editors will enjoy the special section included in this edition.

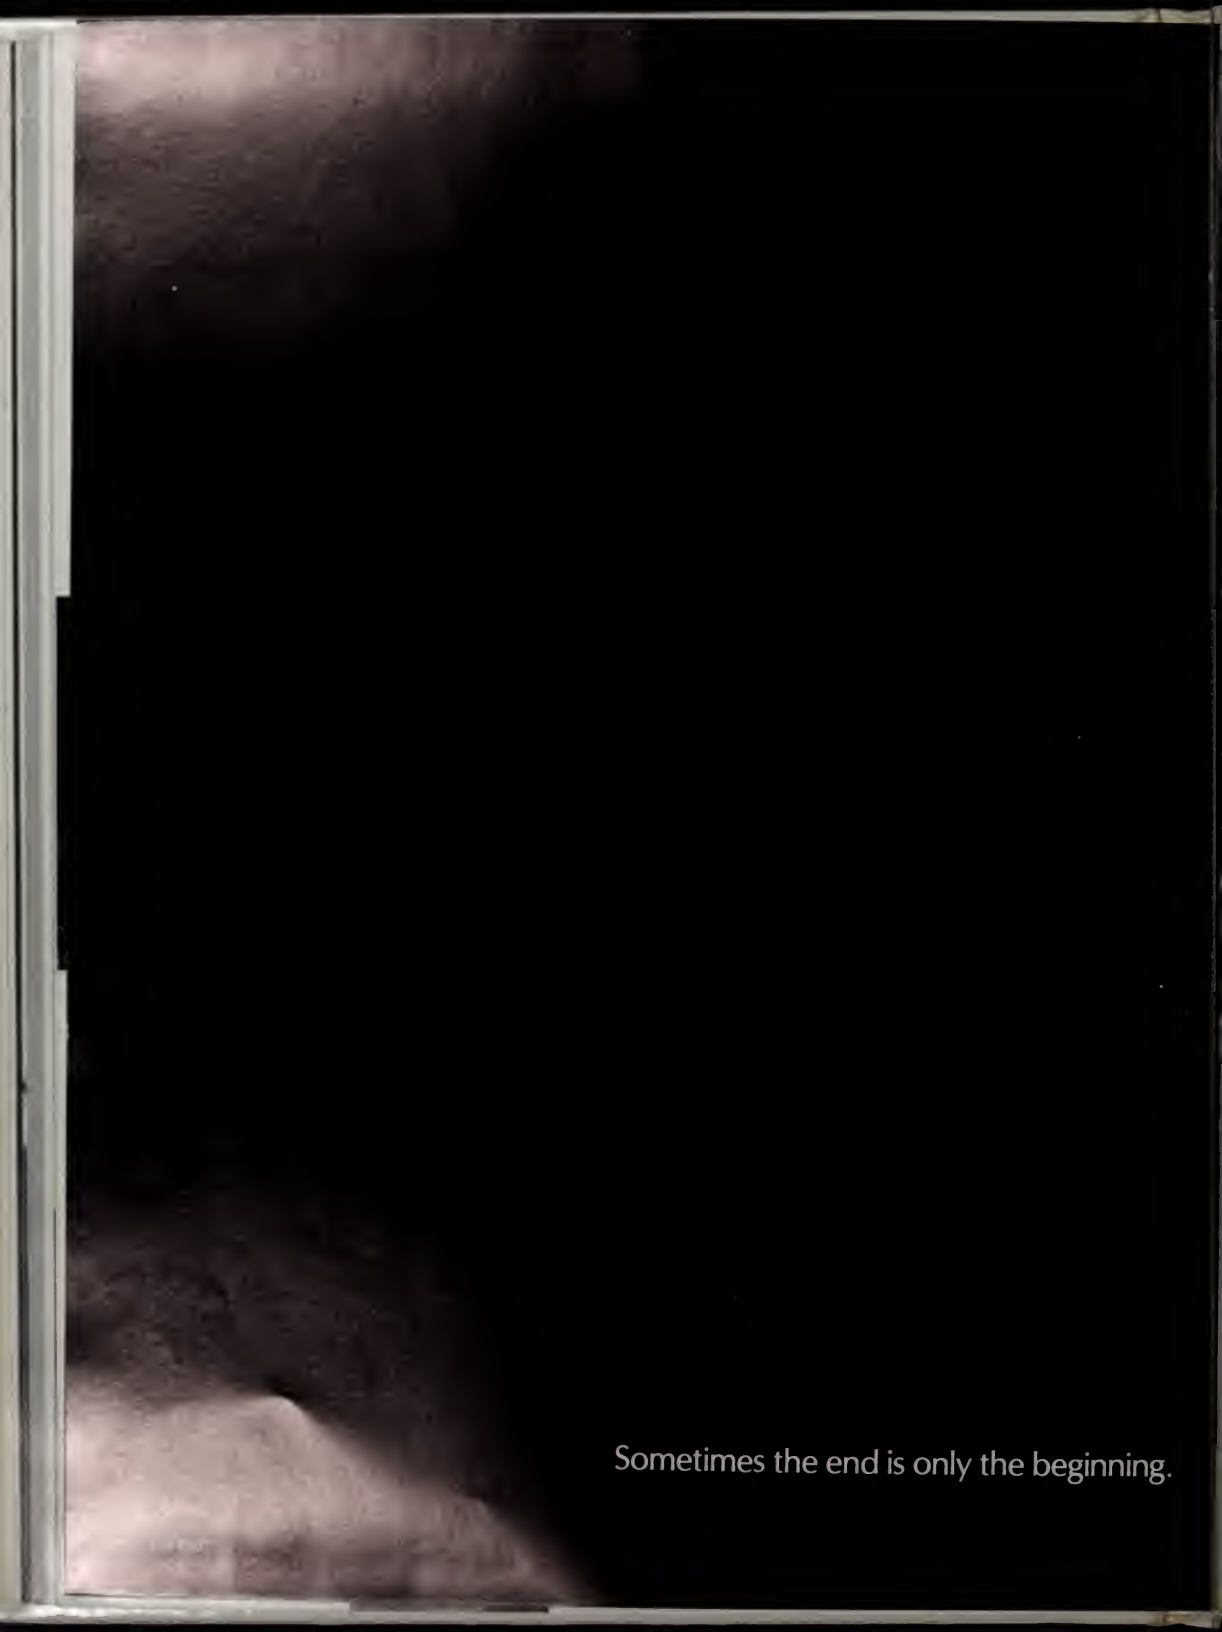

One group of people deserve a special thanks. They are the staff of the 1983 POTPOURRI. I only conceived the book, they constructed it. To one of the most dedicated and hard-working groups on campus, my very special thanks!

An extra special thanks goes to my adviser, Ezra Adams, a man for whom I have an unlimited amount of respect. Without his help, guidance, and patience, I don't think I would have made it. I can't thank him enough.

And last, but by no means least, I want to thank my parents, Rhena and Ed, and the rest of my family for all of the support, love and guidance throughout this ordeal. I love you all!

When everything is taken into consideration, I think this is a damn good book. Sure it could be better, but then can't everything? There are those of you who will argue, but I stick by my statement and this book.

A dark, atmospheric photograph of a night sky. The sky is a deep, velvety black, with subtle gradients of dark purple and blue. A bright, hazy horizon line is visible at the bottom, suggesting a sunset or sunrise. The overall mood is mysterious and contemplative.

Sometimes the end is only the beginning.
